

Lewis Feels A.F.L. Acted Without Authority In Staging Mine Hearing

Speculation Arises That Head of United Mine Workers May Refuse to Stand Trial on Basis of Law.

WILL FOLLOW LEAD

Subordinates in Union Will Stand Trial, If Lewis Does So, is the Report.

By JOSEPH L. MILLER
(Copyright, 1936, By Associated Press)
Washington, July 16 — John L. Lewis, leader of the American Federation of Labor's rebels, was represented today as feeling that the A. F. of L. executive council acted without authority in summoning him and 11 other union leaders to stand trial August 3 on charges of "insurrection."

His opinion that the council's summons had no basis in A. F. of L. law led to speculation that he might defy the order and refuse to stand trial. The labor world, agitated for weeks over the possibility of a great schism in the A. F. of L., awaited his decision.

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, only smiled when told that the council had decided last night to postpone a vote on a proposal to suspend the insurgents. The council, yielding to entreaties of members working for delay and eventual peace, agreed to hold the trial instead.

Lewis's allies in the fight to bring all the workers in each large industry into one big union, in violation of A. F. of L. policy, look to the mine union chief for the lead.

Will Follow Lead
If he decides to stand trial, they also will answer the summons. If he ignores the council order, as he ignored President William Green's invitation to the council meeting just ended, they also will fail to show up, labor men believe.

The council decided to order the trial for two reasons:

To give its peace-makers another chance to try to arrange a compromise agreement between the industrial unionists, and the craft unionists.

To give council members a new cause for suspending the 12 rebel unions if the peace efforts fail.

A substantial majority in the council favored suspension at the meeting recessed last night. They contended that Lewis and his committee for industrial organization were plainly violating federation policy in their plans for industrial unionization in steel, automobiles and rubber.

Factors in Favor
Certain political and economic factors worked in favor of compromise. Most of the council members are Democrats and they understood that President Roosevelt wanted no split in the federation during the coming campaign. They also understood that a loss of one-third of the federation's membership through suspension of the 12 Lewis unions would mean loss of one-third of the federation's revenue.

John P. Frey, president of the A. F. of L. Metal Trades Department, had declared, among five specific charges against the members of the committee for industrial organization, that it "is a dual organization functioning with in the A. F. of L. and in its administrative activity it is clearly competing with the A. F. of L. as a rival organization."

Also, that committee members were "fostering and maintaining insurrection."

Meanwhile, developments in the committee's steel organization came thick and fast.

In New Orleans, the Circuit Court of Appeals blocked the federal government's first effort to intervene. It refused to rehear the labor relation board's complaint that the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation had violated the Wagner Labor Disputes Act in refusing to recognize the Lewis-led steel union as representative of its Allegheny, Pa., employees.

John M. Carmody, a member of the labor relations board, said the case would be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Van A. Bittner, Lewis' mid-western lieutenant in the drive, announced that 2,000 employers at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation's South Chicago plant had left a body to join the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. This was the first report on enrollment that included a definite figure.

A committee of American Railroad Mills workers in Ashland, Ky., asked Lewis organizers to keep away. The committee claimed to represent 2,698 of the 2,733 workers in the mill.

Investors See Spo.
Riverside, Calif., July 16 (AP)—The temperature was 193 degrees and thousands were sweating when Ben F. White announced down Main street to a full court and full cap, carrying a fur robe on his arm. "Just plain business," explained White, who is county coroner and public administrator, "I was surprised when I saw the tax assessor when he was a $10 hat I wouldn't wear 'em down to the courthouse." He snipped his brow.

Fire Hazard Exists Here During Sprinkling Hours

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy today told a reporter that a great fire hazard exists in Kingston evenings between 7 and 9 o'clock, the hours set for sprinkling lawns and gardens, because so much water is being used at one time.

The chief said he desired to make an appeal through the press, asking citizens to cease sprinkling or using water to any great extent if they hear the fire alarm ring. This is the desire of the chief so that the water pressure may be increased, also the volume of water.

A test made Wednesday, said the chief, during the hours set aside for sprinkling showed that there was a pressure of only from two to four pounds on hydrants situated on the high points in the city. Normal pressure should be from 35 pounds upwards. Several hydrants gave no water at all during the test.

Therefore the chief made his plea: "I appeal to the public to shut off sprinkling when they hear the fire alarm, or hear fire apparatus, and refrain from using water until they are sure fire is out."

"We have adequate equipment to fight fires," the chief added, "but all this is useless if we have no water."

Forest Fires Along The Western Slope Of the Shawangunks

A good sized forest fire has been burning along the western side of the Shawangunk Mountain, in the St. James neighborhood, since Tuesday and was reported as still going strong Wednesday afternoon. The smell of smoke from the fire was plainly discernible in Kingston Tuesday night.

The fire was above the berries road, well down the side of the mountain.

Late Wednesday afternoon a second fire broke out further south along the mountain, about opposite the Napanoch Institution. Several state tank trucks, a load of CCC workers and other fire fighters were sent hurrying to the scene of the second fire.

It is no secret that in times past these mountain fires have been deliberately started in order to burn over the ground for the buckeye berry crop. About the second year after fire has swept over the land a bumper crop of berries can be looked for. These fires have cost the towns concerned thousands of dollars for fire fighting. Where the fires are confined to the top of the mountain, where there is little but scrub oak and pine and small brush, there is but little real damage except as the fire destroys game cover and reduces the ability to conserve moisture. In cases, however, the fires have destroyed good timber and threatened dwellings before they could be gotten under control.

Refuses to Testify

Wilmington, N. C., July 16 (AP)—Officers suspended investigation into the newest night rider hogging along the Carolinas' boundary today after the victim refused to become the prosecuting witness. Simultaneously a woman and her pretty 18-year-old daughter, hogged and shorn of their locks a few weeks ago, reported they indirectly had received a new warning from a white-robed band.

Chief J. H. Jones of the South Carolina constabulary announced at Conway, S. C., that the authorities would not press an inquiry into the hogging of Monroe Fowler, 40-year-old farmer.

Party at Onondaga

Cattolus, N. Y., July 16.—The administration's postoffice building program "has put thousands of men to work," Postmaster General James A. Farley declared at the opening of the new postoffice here. The postmaster general was the principal speaker at a dedicatory exercises yesterday. He said the $27,000 edifice was a "monument to an epoch that has passed and the beginning of a new era that is bringing happiness and prosperity to all."

Cleveland, July 16 (AP)—The Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin aligned himself with Dr. Francis E. Townsend today and in an address to the Townsend National Convention termed President Roosevelt a "betrayer and liar."

The founder of the National Union for Social Justice told the Townsend delegates, "As far as the National Union is concerned, no candidate which it endorses for congress can support the great betrayer and liar, Franklin Roosevelt."

"He who promised to drive the money changers from the temple has built up the greatest public debt in the nation's history," he said. "Is that driving money changers from the temple?"

Father Coughlin declared "he has adopted Communistic measures. The National Union will not endorse any candidate who advocates the re-election of the great betrayer, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

He said he was forced to "repudiate" the philosophy of Governor Alf M. Landon, Republican nominee for president.

Shortly before entering Public Auditorium for his address, which was announced only last night, Father Coughlin met with Dr. Townsend and a Townsend director, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, head of the share-the-wealth movement.

"We will stand together against this unholy trinity of Landon, Roosevelt and Browder," said Fr. Coughlin after the conference.

In his reference to Landon in the address, Fr. Coughlin said "Today when Mr. Landon advocates the restoration of the gold standard, I am forced to repudiate his philosophy and platform as a return to the days of economic slavery."

Coughlin began his speech slowly, speaking extemporaneously, and expounding policies that have been adopted by the National Union for Social Justice.

No Quarrel With The Constitution
"We have no quarrel with the constitution," he said.

"Not that we need to change our constitution. The day has arrived when we must expel those who have perverted our constitution."

"Thus the National Union is not established upon a radical excursion in the wilderness of Communism and Socialism, nor on the other hand is it wedded to those die-hard Tories who persist in telling us that we must support the Roosevelt or the Landon on banquet table or America for the money changers."

Coughlin told the delegates the three organizations would retain their separate identity but that they would work for the same principles.

Congressman Sweeney of Ohio was asked publicly by Father Coughlin to choose between the National Union and Roosevelt.

"On this platform," Father Coughlin said, "or somewhere in the audience there is a Democrat endorsed by the National Union for congressman. His name is Martin L. Sweeney."

"Congressman Sweeney, although the National Union has endorsed you, you are aware that you will lose that support of you stand for the re-election of Roosevelt. How do you stand?"

"I know he's double-crossing," said Sweeney. "I stand with the National Union."

Coughlin heads the Union for Social Justice. Smith the Share the Wealth organization and Townsend the $200 a month pension drive.

Townsend said Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic national committee was "trying to throw bricks at us in our convention" and Smith assailed the Roosevelt administration as a "subtle plot to communize the nation."

As the three were meeting in a hotel room, the thousands of delegates to the convention were assembling on the convention floor to hear an address by Father Coughlin, the high spot of the day's program.

Southern delegates already had voiced loud disapproval of convention speeches criticizing the Roosevelt administration and claimed that 15 states were behind them in their drive against affiliation with any third party.

The announcement came from B. J. Cohen, chairman of the Florida delegation, and several noted that a convention floor battle was in prospect if an attempt were made to have the convention endorse Lewis.

States joining Florida, as announced, were Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Virginia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and West Virginia, Rhode Island, Maine, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

The statement that the Rev. Father Coughlin would speak today said he would replace Lewis, "originally scheduled to speak Thursday." Announcements earlier this week said Lewis had accepted an invitation to appear Sunday, the closing day of the convention.

The founder of the plan for payment of $200 monthly pensions to the aged with the aim of relieving poverty for everybody told the

Drouth Ravages Spread In West Despite Cooler Wave, Deaths at 3,850

Federal Agencies Chart Plans to Alleviate Poverty of Families; Apprehension is Great Among Corn Belt Farmers.

PASTURES GONE

Unless Rain Falls in 10 Days All Pastures Will Be Ruined, is Their Fear.

Chicago, July 16 (AP)—Ravages of drouth reached the critical stage in a widening area today despite lowering temperatures which slowed heat inroads on human life.

The nation counted more than 3,850 dead in 13 days as the torrid wave abated at points where the heat was most fatal.

Even as federal agencies charted plans to alleviate the poverty of families ruined by crop destruction in five western and northwestern states, new apprehension was expressed by farmers of the corn belt.

Dr. Andrew Boss, University of Minnesota Agronomist, declared most of the Minnesota corn crop would be ruined unless rain fell within a week. Small grains were cut for feed in northwestern Minnesota and along the western border. The outlook was for continued heat with only scattered showers.

A federal meteorologist's bulletin at Lincoln, Neb., said all vegetation deteriorated steadily during the last week. There was still the possibility of a fair corn crop if timely rains were forthcoming. Pastures were reported as "practically gone," with meadows and the second alfalfa crops "very short."

Pastures In Danger.
K. D. Blood, federal crop statistician in Oklahoma, said that unless rain fell within 10 days cattle feed supplies would be exhausted and owners would have to move cattle rapidly and in wholesale lots.

No relief was sighted for today in Iowa by C. D. Reed, federal meteorologist, as he estimated corn damage in the state already had reached 10 per cent. He saw the possibility of scattered showers tomorrow.

Damage to the central Illinois corn crop was estimated up to 50 per cent by Dr. J. R. Holbert, agronomist in charge of U. S. Department of Agriculture corn breeding plots, even if general rains should develop quickly.

Scattered showers and somewhat lower temperatures were predicted for today or tomorrow.

Lower temperatures in Ohio yesterday failed to bring rain and prediction of thunderstorms today offered slight hope for crops already badly damaged.

For the relief of dwellers in the drouth desolated areas of the Dakotas, western Minnesota and eastern Montana and Wyoming a conference of state and federal officials at Bismarck, N. D., developed a comprehensive program for submission to Rexford G. Tugwell, resettlement administrator.

Program's Features.
Farmers desiring to keep small livestock herds may receive grants for the purchase of feed and subsistence funds, to be repaid by work on WPA projects.

Owners of large-scale cattle enterprises may obtain loans and grants to cover cost of shipping animals to other states for feeding.

Money will be advanced immediately to all needy families, repayable out of WPA earnings.

Resettlement administration allowance will be increased where necessary, feed for livestock will be purchased and stored for distribution in the drouth area.

Tugwell, arriving at Bismarck to help coordinate the relief enterprises, was told approximately 50,000 families in 40 of North Dakota's 53 counties, or one-third of the state's population, were among the needy.

Russell Thorpe, secretary of the Wyoming Cattle Growers Association, estimated the drouth caused a shortage of 300,000 cattle in the state.

Forecasters J. R. Lloyd of the Chicago weather district attributed cooler temperatures in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, the Chicago area, northern Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and New England to a high pressure area which moved down from the Hudson Bay region of Canada.

Typical high thermometer readings in the unshaded areas yesterday included 114 at Peoria, Ill., and Washington, Kas., 118 at Clinton, Mo.

London, July 16—A discontented subject of King Edward VIII leveled a loaded revolver at his monarch today in what seemed to be an attempt at assassination.

But the man, seized by police after his gun had been knocked from his hand by a "woman in grey," said his act was only a protest and exclaimed: "I didn't want to hurt him in any way."

Rushed from crowded Constitution Hill, where he was overwhelmed by police while King Edward rode on to Buckingham Palace at the head of his troops, the prisoner was taken to Bow Street station and remanded for eight days on a charge of "unlawful possession of a firearm with intent to endanger life."

Police said his name was George Andrew Mahon and that he was a newspaperman. They held back a jeering, cat-calling throng while he was whisked from Bow street to prison.

Defense Not Suggested

Neither the police nor Mahon's attorney explained what part of a protest the prisoner intended.

Mahon told an officer he had tried to get in touch with Sir John Simon, the home secretary. Since a plea to the home secretary is one of the last resorts for a murderer condemned to death, it was suggested Mahon may have intended a protest against capital punishment.

Authorities described him as middle aged, slightly bald and seemingly club-footed.

He limped to the dock in Bow Street station and was remanded for eight days.

Blames Simon

Detective Inspector John Sands, giving formal evidence of the arrest, said the prisoner told him on route to the station: "It's all the fault of Sir John Simon, (the home secretary)."

"I wrote him last night and phoned him this morning."

"The king wasn't hurt in any way, was he?"

"I didn't want to hurt him in any way."

"I only did it as a protest."

His remarks were not immediately explained.

Sands, describing how the man was taken into custody by constables, said:

"I was handed this five-chambered revolver (he produced the weapon) which was loaded with ball and ammunition in four chambers but not in the top chamber which gave immediate access to the barrel."

He stated there was no evidence the weapon had been fired for a considerable time.

The assailant pushed his way through ranks of spectators and Bobbies as the king, in uniform, clattered down Constitution Hill on his way to the palace after presenting colors to the troops.

Trembles Violently

Brought to the dock the prisoner stood trembling violently, shifting from leg to leg wiping his face and drumming the sides of his back with clenched fists.

Inspector Sands produced two rounds of live ammunition taken from the man along with a black-bordered envelope containing a postcard portrait of the king and a newspaper on which was pencilled: "May I love you?"

His name and the charge against him were not mentioned in the actual court proceedings.

After the accused had been remanded to jail, a solicitor representing him stated:

"In view of reports which appeared in tonight's evening papers, the prisoner wishes to say there was no attempt at assassination nor was there any intention of assassination."

Until recently, the defendant was quoted as saying, he had been editor of a paper called the "Human Gazette."

At first police announced his loaded revolver "fell in the road" between the king and the troops following him.

There were witnesses who asserted the suspect actually aimed the gun at the king but that a "woman in grey" knocked the gun from his hand.

The king retained his calm dignity throughout, although several witnesses said they believed he saw the armed man in the crowd before the quick commotion broke out.

Women screamed and fainting. Powerful bobbies swarmed in on the suspect and rushed him away before violence developed.

The whole English capital was

Governor Unlikely To Reprive Creighton Woman at Sing Sing

Ossining, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—Mrs. Frances Creighton, prostrated for weeks in her Sing Sing prison cell but declared sane and healthy in a special examination, looked today to Governor Herbert H. Lehman as her only hope to escape death in the electric chair tonight for the poison killing of Mrs. Ada Applegate.

Everett C. Applegate, husband of the victim, will die with Mrs. Creighton unless the governor intervenes.

Governor Lehman made public without comment last night a report of his commission of five, including four physicians, saying they found:

"No evidence of disease" after examining Mrs. Creighton.

Prison attendants at Sing Sing have reported the last few weeks that the 36-year-old condemned woman seemed paralyzed with fear at her approaching execution and was able to retain only liquid nourishment.

"Mrs. Frances Q. Creighton is well-developed, well-nourished, and muscular," the governor's commission reported. "If she has lost weight it is not apparent."

"Her mind appears to be clear and she fully appreciates her present situation."

Her condition is the reaction to the situation in which she finds herself."

Attendants of the state lunacy commission found Mrs. Creighton sane a few days ago.

Mrs. Creighton and Applegate were convicted of murder in the death last September of Mrs. Applegate, a 268-pound woman.

She charged the defendants gave her poison in an egg-cup. Both families occupied the same house at Baldwin, Long Island.

On June 30 the governor heard demerency pleas for Mrs. Creighton and Applegate, but rejected demerency. Both have lost appeals to the Supreme Court for new trials.

A letter from Ruth Creighton, 16-year-old daughter of the condemned woman, saying that Applegate had told her he was "going to kill" his wife was offered as basis for Mrs. Creighton's plea. It was dated last April.

Hearing For Monuments

An inspector from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles will hold a hearing on July 22, at 9:30 o'clock at the county court house at which time cases of motorists whose right to operate motor vehicles have been suspended or revoked will be heard.

That Kingston is doing its share to keep the unemployed working on WPA projects is shown by the following figures which were quoted in the report of City Engineer James Norton to the Board of Public Works at its meeting in the city hall, Monday night.

The city of Kingston has expended in cash to July 1, for materials, equipment, tools and engineering supervision of WPA projects the amount of $61,475.68.

In addition the city expended in use and maintenance and repair of city owned equipment on WPA projects and cash contributions in pipe, labor and equipment supplies by the Water Department $41,216.95.

Kingston city's total share toward WPA project costs $102,691.73.

Engineer Norton's report listed the various WPA jobs as sewer projects on Madison avenue, Albany avenue, Linderman avenue, Wrentham street, Madison-Kiersted-Hardway avenue, Savoy to Kiersted-Hardway, Roosevelt to Manor avenue, Roosevelt to Savoy avenue, Clarendon avenue, Force water main and pumping station.

Grading projects to which a liberal amount of the funds go are on Staples street, Wilbur avenue, Grant street, Second avenue, Lincoln street, North Rondout, West O'Reilly street, Abel street, Hudson street and Snyder avenue.

Other improvements to the city, listed as miscellaneous projects, are painting the fire houses, stump removal, curbs, sidewalks and Block Park. $1,015.67 has been expended to date on miscellaneous projects.

Water projects, for which the city has pledged $18,211.70, are under way on Staples street, Pine, Glen, First avenue, West O'Reilly streets and Howard avenue. To date $347.53 of this pledge has been spent.

Completed sewer projects are those on Mary's avenue, Second avenue, (including water), Block Park, Howard avenue, Hardbrook avenue, Third avenue, Savoy street and West O'Reilly street.

The $61,475.68 for materials, etc., up to July 1, is to be paid with funds raised in the $129,000 bond issue.

Following is the report in full of Engineer Norton:

Below Normal Crops Predicted in State

Albany, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—New York state counted a toll today of 134 dead and widely damaged crops in the seven-day heat wave which state to new all-time highs.

Three persons died in the upstate area yesterday as cooling winds blew in from the north and west to rout heat and humidity which had caused widespread suffering.

Roy L. Gillett, statistician of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets, estimated reduced yields in apples, peaches, cherries and grapes. He also predicted below normal crops for potatoes, beans, cabbage, cauliflower, celery and hay.

Gillett said the probable apple yield in the state this year would be 5,000,000 bushels as compared with 15,875,000 last year, peaches 625,000 compared with 793,000, cherries 12,900 tons compared with 22,550; and grapes 47,000 tons compared with 66,500.

The potato crop, he said, is about 76 per cent of normal as against 83 per cent on July 1 last year; and dry beans 72 per cent as against 83 per cent.

Floyd Wilson Exhibit At Sawkill Gallery

Woodstock, July 16—The second one-man show at the Sawkill Gallery, devoted to the work of Floyd Wilson, Woodstock artist, continues to prove the success of this new venture by the Sawkill Painters and Sculptors. This show is unique in that it is almost entirely of pastels, done with more than ordinary ability in the handling of the medium. Mr. Wilson has spent most of his life as an artist. He has studied in the Minneapolis Art Institute, with Robert Henri, and in Europe.

The show includes work from all periods of his career so that his development can be traced from the beginning of his progress to the present day. Animals are his favorite subject. Work done out west and in Woodstock show the result of this preference. This special interest however has not limited him entirely to this subject for he has several still lifes, a portrait and two nudes in the show.

Two of the finest pieces in the show are two of the three oils on exhibition. One of these, "Head", is full of character and strength, with somewhat the quality of an old master. The other, "Texas Tommy Dancers", is full of life, a spirited moving scene. This also is reminiscent of an older school. His more recent work has a different quality, one of freshness and light freedom, less of the academic. "Elephant and Zebra", a pastel, is an interesting contrast, with two dainty little zebras, standing beside a huge and cumbersome elephant. "Mule", another pastel, loaned by Robert Browning, is full of amusing mullah expression. In most of his work there is evidence of his love of animals, tinged with a vein of sympathetic and delicate humor. In all of his pictures there is a directness which makes them very appealing to one who sees them. Comparative unknown to the public eye during these modest years of progress, he is a typical example of the gallery's choice of hitherto unsung talent for introduction to an appreciative public.

The complete list of pictures hung in the show is as follows: "Mule", pastel loaned by Robert Browning; "Texas Tommy Dancers", an oil, loaned by Henry Morton Robinson; "Special Ponies", a pastel; "Reclining Nude", pastel; "Horse Market", pastel; "Nude", pastel; "Green Bazaar", pastel; "Elephant and Zebra", pastel; "Horse Auction", pastel; "Patching Place Court", pastel; "Zebras", pastel; "Head", oil; "Wood Ducks", pastel, loaned by M. Robinson.

The rain falls alike upon the just and the unjust, but the latter cuss more about not getting their share.

Roosevelt Enjoys Vacation Cruise

Aboard Schooner Liberty off Maine, July 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt noed his vacation schooner, the Sewanna, almost due east from Seal Harbor, Maine, today and hoped the strong wind of yesterday would continue.

His first stop was set for Petit Manan Island, about 25 miles distant, and southeast of Mount Desert Island where he spent the night. Tomorrow, the Sewanna, with plenty of lobster and freshly caught flounder aboard, will strike out across the choppy Bay of Fundy for some sailing along the southeasterly shore of Nova Scotia.

With a stiff breeze filling her sails, the little white pleasure craft, with the sun-tanned President at the helm, made a fast run from Duck's Harbor yesterday to Seal Cove where Mr. Roosevelt and his three sons, James, Franklin, Jr., and John, members of his crew, had luncheon with Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, whose summer home on shore could be seen from the schooner.

After the luncheon, the President steered the Sewanna around the southern tip of Mount Desert Island and dropped anchor for the night in Seal Harbor.

The second day's sailing covered around 35 miles. So far, the weather has been good, with plenty of sunshine and no fog. The wind has been chilly, requiring heavy sweaters and wind breakers.

Word was conveyed to the Liberty late last night that the President, on being notified of the birth of his seventh grandson, sent the following message to Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt at Fort Worth, Texas: "Congratulations. Grandfather and three uncles."

Country Fair Groups Busy at Woodstock

Woodstock, July 16—All of the various sub-committees preparing for the annual country fair for the benefit of the Woodstock Library, which will take place on the library green July 29, from 2 till 6 p. m., are actively engaged in elaborate preparations. A meeting of the sub-chairmen was held on Tuesday at the home of Miss Alice Wardwell, chairman of the fair, to report how the work is progressing.

Mrs. Buttrick and Mr. Vaughn, who have charge this year of the decorations, are rumored to be creating wonders in the seclusion of some quiet studio.

Miss Betty Browning, who has charge of the pet show, declares herself brimfull of ideas. An innovation for this season's pet show will be a place where pets may be kept, while owners take in the remainder of the show. Pet fanciers, animal lovers and zoologically minded people in general are reminded that the pet show offers prizes for the most varied type of pets. Any living creature from an ant to an alligator is eligible to take part.

The games and contests, under the sub-chairmanship of Mrs. Mearns, promise to be attractive as well as varied. Not only will most of last year's popular games be repeated, but certain new ones are likewise planned.

Mrs. W. O. Thompson, librarian of the Woodstock library, and Miss Isabel Doughty, chairman of the book committee, drove to Albany last week to return books borrowed from the extension division of the State Library there.

Safety Through Drama

Albany, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—A campaign to promote safety on the highways and in the home by a dramatic presentation of accident hazards was planned today by the State Department of Health. Thomas Stowell, assistant director of public health education, said the hazards of reckless driving and carelessness in the home would be emphasized through exhibits, radio playlets and pamphlets.

Golden Sunset Lodge No. 227 will discontinue their meetings for July and Aug. Williamina Van Buren, Pres. Mildred Van Buren, Sec.

Republicans to Push Statewide Canvass

New York, July 16 (AP)—A statewide canvass to get out the "stay at home" vote will begin about August 15, Republican leaders were informed today after a conference here between State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton and Clarence R. King of Syracuse, chairman of the G. O. P. state committee executive board.

Eaton and the Onondaga party leader discussed the program here yesterday and announced later they were confident they could reach a majority of an estimated half million "stay at home" voters by a statewide canvass.

King was optimistic concerning the outcome of the election in November. He said there was "a decided drift of voters from the New Deal to the Landon-Knox ticket."

Colonel Knox has been invited to deliver the keynote address at the party's state convention in Albany in September.

High Temperatures And the Low Rainfall Injuring State Crops

Lack of adequate rainfall during June and early July accompanied by high temperatures during early July is causing severe damage to several of New York's important crops according to a state-federal report released from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Over much of the state the pastures have deteriorated very rapidly during June and early July. On July 1 the average condition stood at only 68 per cent of normal compared with the 10-year average of 86 per cent. The extremely high temperatures during early July have caused further deterioration of the pastures. Pasture conditions have also declined rapidly through the dairy states of the middle west as well as through the Dakotas, Kansas, Nebraska and the states of Kentucky and Tennessee. For the entire country the pasture condition stood at 58.1 per cent of normal compared with 85.4 per cent a year ago and the 10-year average of 81.6 per cent.

The hay crop of the state is light. There was, however, a large carry-over from last season's large hay crop but pasture conditions are now so poor through many sections of the state that dairymen are being compelled to draw upon their supply of hay. This will lower the amount of hay available for next winter's feeding. Present indications point to a probable production of tame hay this season in the state of about 4,344,000 tons compared with last year's 5,589,000 tons harvested last year.

Potato prospects for the state are below average at this time. A condition of 76 per cent of normal is reported compared with 83 on July 1 last year and 85 the 5-year average. Many stands are uneven. Some seed never grew. The extremely high temperatures coupled with lack of rainfall has kept the plants generally from making proper development.

The dry beans of the state have also failed to make a good showing to date. Many fields have received practically no rain since they were planted in early June. This has resulted in uneven stands and in poor growth of many of the plants. The present condition is reported at 72 per cent of normal compared with the 5-year average of 83 per cent on July 1.

Apple production in the state promises to amount to only about 9,000,000 bushels compared with 16,875,000 bushels harvested last year and the 5-year average of 19,012,000 bushels. Production also promises to be light through the other important apple producing states. For the entire United States a production of only 103,214,000 bushels is forecast compared with 167,282,000 bushels harvested last year, and the 5-year average of 161,333,000 bushels.

The peach crop of the state promises to amount to only about 625,000 bushels compared with 793,000 bushels. Through Ohio and Indiana the peach crop is nearly a failure.

very light in Illinois and only about one-half of last season's production in Michigan. Good peach production is in evidence through the Carolinas, Georgia, Colorado and the Pacific coast states.

Late frosts ruined whatever chances for good production the cherry trees of the state had. With the harvest now in progress the crop is estimated at 12,090 tons compared with 22,550 tons harvested last year. For the entire country the production is placed at 105,630 tons compared with 120,130 tons harvested last year.

This season's grape production promises to be below average. Present indications point to a probable production of about 47,500 tons compared with 66,500 tons last year and the 5-year average of 50,106 tons.

The cabbage, cauliflower, celery, etc., over much of the state are nearly at a standstill on account of the lack of moisture. Adequate rainfall within a reasonable length of time would doubtless bring these along.

SAVING THE PLAINS

Americans are wondering whether the arid regions, so grievously hurt by this year's heat and drought, are going to revert to desert and be depopulated. This may happen, for a time at least, in some places. The "plow that broke the plains," bringing riches at first, seems finally to bring poverty. Cultivated soil will not endure a dry spell that a surface of buffalo grass could resist. Heat and wind become fatal foes to agriculture. Efforts must be made to provide a new cover for the soil, in the hope that the climate is not really changing and that, when this dry spell is past, normal rainfall may return. But obviously man must adapt himself to the situation.

What the government is trying to do, the President explains to the press, is to change the economy of the afflicted region. With suitable change of crops and methods, it will still support a population, though not so large in some areas as heretofore. Much of the land, obviously, is no longer suitable for wheat. It is useless to continue year after year, spending large sums in an effort to continue wheat-growing, where the water-table steadily sinks. But in most of the region, grass of suitable type can still be grown. Old varieties are known and new ones have been developed or imported from abroad. Meat is as important as grain. Cattle-raising may become again a source of wealth on millions of acres whose owners are now in despair. And to some extent, no doubt, field and garden crops can be renewed.

RED FINGER NAILS

The most interesting news item recently from Capetown, South Africa, seems to be the one about red finger and toe nails. Business men there have a strong prejudice against such adornment. In advertising for office help, they specify that "no girls with colored finger nails need apply." They explain that scarlet finger tips—not to mention scarlet toes—take a business man's mind off his work, and they resent such distractions. American girls will probably agree that it's just too bad about those weak-minded business men. And probably the painting will go right on. Our own business and professional men seem to be merely amused by this sort of thing, and some of them actually like it. The general verdict in this land of the free and home of the fair is, "If they want to do it, let 'em!"

But if the Africans had started a crusade against scarlet lipsticks, they might have got a surprising response hereabouts. A normal male American, although he doesn't object to lip-painting when artistically done, is often horrified by the color used. Ordinarily, in these hectic days, it is an altogether unnatural hue—not the color of health, but the color of disease, suggesting a temperature of about 500 degrees. Very likely it is suitable for the stage, where lips have to resist fierce lights. Elsewhere it is usually hideous, and men like women not because of it, but in spite of it.

TRICKS WITH LIGHT

The incredible magic feats of the old fairy tales occasionally bob up as prosaic achievements of science or mechanics. Thus the cloak of invisibility has its modern counterpart in the "blanket of invisibility" now being demonstrated in this country by Prof. Adam Goetzky of Budapest. The apparatus by which he makes solid-blood human bodies disappear before your very eyes is a purely mechanical development. He says. His machine produces rays of contrasting light which play against each other and cause the optical illusion of the subject's vanishing into thin air. The light can be directed at the whole figure or at part of the subject, causing a dancer's body to disappear, for example, while the feet remain dancing in full view. This reveals Alice's friend the Cheshire cat who could appear in to or by degrees and vanish slowly until only his grin remained. The device, so far, is restricted in use. Prof. Goetzky can't make people disappear unless they place themselves before his machine. It couldn't be used to camouflage a ship at sea or to conceal a hold-up man on the street. Those stunts may be achieved some day, however. It is a poor era in which to call anything impossible.

MODEST CENTENARIAN.

Bergensfield, N. J., turned out on July 5 to observe the birthday anniversary of its oldest citizen, Mrs. Kate Huyler, 100 years old. She deserves special tribute because she refuses to advise her fellow-townsmen on how to live a century. She has always lived "normally," she says, with no particular food fads or health regimen, and no striving for longevity. Pressed by reporters for more information, she admits that she gets plenty of sleep these days, helps her daughter a little with the housework, but is inactive a good deal of the time. She continues to take a lively interest in what's going on in the world, reading the news, voting at elections, and so on. Hate off to the lady who was born to long life and doesn't take credit to herself now for her achievement.

CANCER OF THE STOMACH

It would seem that a ray of hope for patients with cancer of the stomach (even of large size) has now appeared. Dr. W. Walters, Mayo Clinic, in Minnesota Medicine, says that the proper treatment of cancer of the stomach, regardless of its size, is to have the patient undergo an "exploratory incision," which means opening the abdomen and permitting the surgeon to see the condition of the stomach. This is not done, nor is operation usually done, if there are evidences of cancer in other parts of the body.

Usually when the X-ray shows that the cancer is too large or is in certain positions, no attempt is made to operate as it would only hasten death. However Dr. Walters states that in 10 to 15 per cent of the cases in which the X-ray seems to show that it is too late to operate, the removal of the cancer may still be accomplished by operation. It happens at times that large cancers will be found to be slow in growth, not severe in their effects, and causing no growth elsewhere. The removal of this type of cancer often gives a permanent cure, particularly in elderly patients. At the Mayo Clinic, the finding of an extensive cancer in the stomach, and even when there are extensions of the cancer in the adjoining lymph nodes, is viewed from the standpoint that, unless the cancer is removed, the patient is doomed to an early death. In several cases the total removal of the stomach has been performed successfully at the clinic and patients have lived comfortably for two and three years afterwards. Naturally this means that operation will now be performed in cases that were formerly thought to be past the operation stage. Another point is that it is not the age of the patient but his general condition that is a factor as to the wisdom or safety of the operation. A further important discovery was that many of the small growths or defects in the stomach, as revealed by the X-ray, some of which were thought to be "innocent" growths, not cancers, were found on operation to be really cancer, and of course early removal meant the saving of the life.

Remember the advice of our cancer organizations: "Cancer of the stomach in the early stage is the easiest type to cure; in the late stage, the most difficult."

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO

July 16, 1916—One man was killed and three injured at the Acme cement plant, Alsea, when hurled from a high trestle. Leo J. Schupp and Miss Anna May Peterson married. Daniel F. Vanderlyn of Ellenville and Miss Tracy Sheldon of Granville married at Granville. Death of Dr. T. S. Partian in New York City.

TRICKS WITH LIGHT

July 16, 1936—John Gallagher died, aged 11 years. Jack Delaney defeated Paul Berlenbach, light-heavyweight champion, 15 rounds, in New York. Andrew Kellner died. Harry Dexter of Vermont died. Mrs. A. J. Koehler, formerly of Saugerties, died in Far Rockaway. Charles Patton, Milton, died in Newburgh. City dwellers in general, and particularly those living in New York City, run less chance of being killed by lightning than the traveler on the open road, the worker in the field or the rider on the plains. The danger of meeting such a death according to statistics of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, is very slight in the United States. They report that during the period 1924-1932 there were recorded 3,443 deaths from lightning within the expanding Death Registration Area of the United States. This is equivalent to 24.5 a year or to about three in every million of the population.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNEIL

SYNOPSIS: Inspector Hylton has just about pinned the murder of old Arthur Hurdett on Hurdett's youngest half nephew—when suddenly the suspicious and condemned by Dale Shipley's flight to London. Hylton is driving away from Dale's house to leave a pick-up order when Nancy Featherstone older than Dale but in love with him, comes to the door. Hylton tells her that he is going to arrest her husband. Hylton returns with her, and is locked in a strong room. Meanwhile, Hylton's car is not particularly clever, he is supposed to be at work on the same case. And of course, Dale is not at Nancy's house.

Chapter 30 FAMILY AT ODDS

AT one o'clock Sergeant White came back to his cottage and went thoughtfully through into the kitchen where his wife was busy taking something out of the oven. "How's my Hylton this morning?" Alice asked lightly. "He wasn't there."

"Not there? Where was he?" "As a matter of fact I don't quite know. He told me to meet him at twelve and said particularly I was not to be late. They told me the Hoops that he went into Morechester this morning early, and then came back about half past ten and they haven't seen him since."

"Pity you can't find out who did that old fool in," she said irritably. "We might get a lift then and be able to afford a decent oven."

"No one can expect me to be over at Nycton and at Enderton Court at the same time."

"It wasn't much good your being at Nycton seemingly, the poachers were out just the same."

"How do you know that?" White asked quickly, and Alice could have bitten the end of her stupid tongue off. She ought to have learned by now, she reflected, to be doubly careful with a man as madly jealous as her husband.

"I just heard somebody talking about it somewhere in the village—here have this damned, oh I'm sorry Jimmy, this blessed shepherd's pie before it gets cold..."

She cut him a piece of bread and put the bottle of Yorkshire Relish in his reach and filled his glass with water. All these ministrations he received with that masculine matter of course indifference which not infrequently a woman finds the most maddening thing in the whole world. One or two sharp comments came to her tongue but she repressed them. Jimmy had a regular job with good money and a pension, she wasn't going to be fool enough to fall out with him unnecessarily, especially when she could pull the wool over his eyes so beautifully as long as she was careful.

"Pie's burnt a bit," he said. "What are you doing this afternoon?" "Going to Morechester."

"The pictures, I suppose?"

"You're always off there, now-days," he said.

"A woman wants to get out of her house sometime, I suppose."

"What's on—anything special?"

"For a moment Alice could hardly believe her ears. It would be just like the almost inspired perverseness of the male, she thought, if he said he would come with her. He noticed her slight pause and asked again, this time looking full at her.

"I'm just trying to think," she said testily. "I'm not sure what it is, but I don't think it's anything special."

AFTER a moment or so she could not help adding "Were you thinking of coming, Jimmy?"

"Good Lord, no I've got something to do. I shall be out with the inspector, I suppose."

Alice was well pleased to let the conversation run on to other lines. "Fanny you can't get any idea who's done it," she said.

"Who says we can't get any idea? I keep telling the inspector it's most likely one of these rough-looking chaps I saw in the village a day or two before."

"I wonder who they were. No body else saw them, did they?"

"Of course somebody else saw them, but nobody takes any notice of a tramp."

"Seems to me a waste of time looking in the village here."

"Prize they'll find that out as they go along," White said with a secular smile.

"Do you think the inspector suspects young Shipley?"

"Why should he?" her husband looked up sharply.

"Well, everybody knows he didn't like the old man and I suppose it might as well be him as anybody else."

White looked away again and shook his head.

Sergeant White sits down to the wood, tomorrow.

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Senator Borah's announcement in Boise that he had no intention of bolting the Laundon ticket and was supporting the platform lift of much more from Republican browns—but perhaps not all. Borah has often made statements into which eager eyes have read too much. Those who have toyed with Borah statements before suspect Governor Laundon may have read too much into the Borah statement when the nominee said, "I am happy to have the cooperation of Senator Borah in this campaign."

Borah was quoted as saying this: "I have no intention of bolting the ticket."

"I am supporting the platform and I have been supporting the platform from the beginning."

Now Borah did not "bolt" the Hoover ticket in 1932, but his icy silence chilled Republicans ardent for beyond the mountains. To the extent that he has publicly announced that he will not bolt the present ticket he has "cooperated" with Laundon by removing at least part of the chill of his silence.

Those studying the situation from a purely Idaho standpoint wondered if the senator were not merely opening the door for Idaho Republicans to campaign a bit more comfortably both for Borah and for the national ticket.

For them to campaign solely for Borah would be in a sense to repudiate the national ticket, and thus weaken their case.

Currency Views Differ

LONDON insisted upon a currency ultimately convertible into gold.

Borah said: "I do not accept the view that a sound currency means a return to the gold standard." He added that he wanted his position made plain so as to "avoid all misunderstanding after the campaign opens."

Ungraded

To a little child work and play are not divided from the other. When he plays he is working, and when he works he is playing. He has no idea of the difference between the two.

In a congenial home atmosphere this idyllic state continues until school begins. It may be that before he is six he has learned all that the first three grades of school teach. Without effort he has mastered the basic facts of color, number, form; the principle of the lever, the scale; the days of the week, months of the year; the alphabet, counting, geometrical forms, some history and geography; reading, perhaps writing, the multiplication tables, and the rudiments of a foreign language.

It has all been done again and again with no strain on the child's part, no injury to his health. The child does not need to be brilliant, nor do his parents need to be educators. Such a program does not require great expenditure of time. The information is picked up from play and casual discussion. Child and parents are interested, and because he is interested, the child remembers what he learns.

The change comes when he goes to school. He cannot be put into the class where mentally he belongs, lest he be socially ungraded. Through the long hours of school he must go through the form of learning what he already knows. Much of his previous knowledge he must either hide or forget in self-defense. School to which he had looked forward as a chance for further learning, becomes merely a dull grind.

The solution of this problem lies with the parents. Everywhere they have gained classes for the backward child, but so far have done little for the child with a head start.

It is possible to travel by canal from Antwerp on the North Sea to Marseilles on the Mediterranean, through the heart of France.

Question Mark Stands

BUT will he campaign for Laundon? Will he go to Minneapolis as he did in 1932 for Hoover and almost set the farm lands afire with his eloquence? He did not say so in Boise.

He did not say he accepted the platform with Mr. Laundon's gold reservations in fact he followed the Laundon style when he wrote to Idaho Republicans after the Cleveland convention to say he was eager to run again for the senate but would insist on his own reservations to the platform as affected by the Laundon reservations.

School Trustees to Buy Elting Land Adjoining School at Highland

Highland, July 16.—The annual meeting of the Centralized system that includes Lloyd, New Falls and Marlborough, was held Tuesday evening at the school and the trustees were authorized to purchase two and three-tenths acres of land from Hubert and Florence Elting, which joins the present school land on the north. The state after making a most thorough investigation of conditions which have been crowded for the past eight years, and the consideration of economic conditions as they exist could not recommend the ideal plant facilities of erecting a junior-senior high school on a separate site, but did recommend the purchase of the land and erecting a separate unit, which will have a connection with the present north wing, and thus take care of the over-crowding. The price is said to be $3,000, and the unit to house class rooms, gymnasium and auditorium. These facts and more concerning the inadequate housing facilities were plainly stated during the meeting by the president of the board, Mrs. J. D. Rose. Mrs. Rose also read statements from members of the state department of education, J. H. Hixson, Mr. Coons and Burton D. McCormick.

The vote was taken by ballot and registered 68 votes cast with 41 for the proposition and 28 against. Harry Colyer recorded the names and Ledyard Ball and Lewis Seaman, tellers. Previous to the vote, Miss Frances Roberts asked if the state aid would always be assured and wasn't the state bankrupt now. Elmer D. Randall thought it was better to be bankrupt with a good school than with a poor one. Another questioner said it was current report that an addition could be placed on the present property. Mrs. Rose said that there was 14 1/2 acres now and that aside from the playground immediately in the rear of the building which was used as playground by the lower grades, the newly completed tennis courts were used by older girls and the athletic field, one of the best in the state, was used by the boys, this left a deep gully to the south, and while plans had been drawn at one time to build on such ground as was left the state would not permit its use for a building.

Walter Hasbrouck was elected chairman of the meeting and Andrew W. Lent, clerk of the board, read the call for the meeting. The budget, which was distributed on printed slips, was adopted by a vote. It called for a total school budget of $116,118.00, to this has been added the amount of the sewer assessment $2,932, giving a total estimated expense of $119,050.00. The estimated public money to be received is $79,130.00, and the amount to be raised by tax is $36,565.23. This is less than was asked last year when it amounted to $42,520.19.

William H. Maynard was nominated as trustee for a term of five years to succeed himself. There was no opposition and the election took place Wednesday between the hours of 2 and 9 p. m. at the school house. There were less than 100 persons present at the meeting.

A letter from Burton D. McCormick contained many interesting details following his inspection of the conditions: "This centralization is composed of seven districts. The assessed valuation is $3,508,226 and the bonded indebtedness is $24,000. The average tax rate is approximately $16 a thousand. A new central district was laid out a short time ago centering around Marlborough. It is expected that approximately 50 high school students now attending Highland high school will go to Marlborough on the completion of their new building. The six outside schools are open. Approximately 45 per cent of the children in this central district are of Italian descent, the supervisor was informed.

"Buildings: The first unit of the central building, a two story and basement brick structure was built in 1903. New units were added in 1911 and 1928. This last year some new toilets, a fireproof stairway and a new boiler were added. The two-room school building located near the West Shore station was burned a short time ago. The pupils of the first four grades are now housed in a vacant house near the center of the village. One of the three sixth grades of the central school is located outside of the main building on account of the overcrowded conditions.

"The homemaking, agriculture and shop, typewriting and music rooms are located in the basement. The so-called gymnasium is a long narrow room with an eight-foot ceiling. It is too small for athletic games. The study hall seats 102 and is used for assembly purposes.

"Equipment: The laboratory is not satisfactorily equipped for experimental purposes. There is a narrow shelf along one side of the room which is used by the pupils for experimental purposes. This shelf can accommodate only a few pupils at a time. There is no teacher's demonstration desk. The two apparatus cabinets are satisfactory. Some pieces of science apparatus are worn out or broken.

"Library: The library is located in a regular high school classroom with shelves in the front and back of the room. There are listed 1,700 volumes and 15 magazines.

"Registration: There are 480 pupils registered in the grades, and high school has a total of 190; the non-residents number 112 and six outside schools, 141, making a grand total of $11.

"Organization and instruction: The faculty of this centralization consists of 39 teachers, including the principal. The high school work is quite fully departmentalized. In addition to the college preparatory course, departments are functioning in homemaking, agriculture and shop, and commerce. There are three teachers in music, art, physical training and a part time nurse. A man comes in as the orchestra leader.

"There were 37 in the graduating class last year, 10 of whom went to higher institutions. Of the 37 graduates, 10 earned college entrance diplomas, 9 Regents diplomas and 18 high school diplomas. There are 66 registered in history C in two classes. A number of these pupils are juniors. No history B is offered. The work observed in general science, elementary algebra and English IV deserves special commendation.

"There are 14 grade teachers in the central school. There is a first and second year combination, but no kindergarten. The pupils of the three sixth grades are grouped according to ability. The sixth grade teachers with the highest and lowest groups are doing excellent work. Good work was observed in the first and second grade combinations. The supervisor was not able to visit all the grades. From the work observed, reading appeared to be one of the weak spots.

"The principal and teachers, both in the high school and grades are working under a handicap in their over-crowded building, and naturally, the efficiency of the work is lowered. But the principal and faculty are doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances. Principal Campbell is a good organizer and administrator.

"Recommendations: One of the urgent needs of this school district for several years has been modern, well-equipped high school buildings. The present building is over-crowded and the most efficient work cannot be carried on here.

The inventory of the science apparatus should be completed and transferred to the apparatus register for the permanent records, with the date of purchase of each piece of apparatus as far as possible, and the price paid. The worn out pieces should be replaced.

There are only three pupils in short-hand. This subject should be dropped. The offering of short-hand is not feasible unless there is a commercial outlet for pupils and unless the subject is studied for two years. The supervisor was informed that very few of the graduates were placed in business organizations where short-hand was used.

The Regents examinations in History C are geared to the fourth year. There are 66 pupils registered in the two History C classes, a number of whom are third year pupils. Therefore, unless unusual attention is given to the teaching of this subject, a rather high mortality is liable to occur.

History B is not offered. In a high school of this size, both History A (Ancient History) and History B (Modern History) should be given. History C (American History) is required. The social studies are stressed in education these days.

"From observation today, reading is one of the weak spots in the grade work. More attention should be given to silent reading in order to overcome this weakness.

"Very few achievement tests in the grades have been given in recent years. If achievement tests were given they would help the teachers and principal to detect the weak and strong points in the grade work. The results would show how their grade work compares with other schools of the state and country."

Mrs. Rose was able to state that the results of the Regents examinations this year were the highest in 17 years and that the school is now ranking one of the seven highest in the state.

General Staff Heads Drouth Relief Set-Up

To provide food and clothing for families driven by drouth from such farms as this abandoned acreage near Liberal, Kas., federal relief agencies are coordinated in a military-like set-up.

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington (AP)—Under President Roosevelt as commander-in-chief a highly trained army of federal experts moves on a united front to battle drouth.

The drouth relief committee or "general staff" is the central authority. Its four members formulate policies and represent the President.

Secretary Wallace speaks for the department of agriculture. Dr. Rexford Tugwell's resettlement administration handles the bulk of actual relief work.

Williams Provides Jobs

Aubrey Williams, deputy administrator of WPA, represents Administration Harry Hopkins, who is charged with providing jobs for some 50,000 farmers ruined by the drouth.

Daniel Bell, acting director of the budget, is the finance officer who digs up the money.

Chester Davis, farm member of the federal reserve board, serves as ex-officio adviser to the President and the "general staff" on arranging credit in the drouth areas.

Policies formulated by the "general staff" are transmitted to the inter-departmental drouth committee, the "division staff."

Tapp Heads "Line Officers"

Jesse W. Tapp, assistant administrator of AAA, is chairman or senior "line officer." Tall, broad-shouldered and erect, he is in charge of crop surplus removal and the federal surplus commodities corporation.

Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, came to the department of agriculture in 1923 as chief of the corn-hog section of AAA on indefinite leave from Iowa State College.

Lawrence Westbrook, broad-shouldered, with thinning black hair and a dynamic personality, is called one of the most valuable "line officers" in the present crisis because of his familiarity with resettlement work in Texas.

C. W. Warburton, director of the extension service of the department of agriculture, has been connected with the department for 33 years. Gray-haired, mild-mannered and kindly, he has direct supervision over the thousands of county agents scattered over the country.

Field Men Are "Troops"

Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service of the department of agriculture, came to the department in 1903 and has been in his present position since 1924.

Joseph L. Dalley, assistant administrator of the resettlement administration, a former judge in New Mexico, is in charge of RA rehabilitation work.

W. F. Callender, assistant administrator of AAA, coordinates the activities of the various commodity divisions of AAA under the contract program. Bald, bespectacled and of medium height, he has been with the department of agriculture since 1908.

Pull Counts On This Job

Ithaca, N. Y., July 16.—To demonstrate horsemanship and animal, horsemen and fair-officials throughout the state are arranging for horse-pulling contests at various county and state fairs this fall.

While these contests show keen rivalry and are highly competitive, the public receives more benefit than the thrills of competition, says Earl Hanson of the New York state college of agriculture. A greater appreciation of good horses and horsemanship is developed.

Also, he adds, both the expert and layman may watch the relations between the form and function of the horse; the weight of the horse and his pulling powers; his training and his ability to pull; the condition of the horse and his endurance; the harness and its adjustment; and the shoeing and its effect on a horse's usefulness.

Contests in which the stone-boat has been used to test the pulling power both of oxen and of horses have been held for centuries, but only recently have accurate scientific machines, known as dynamometers, been devised to measure the pulling power of animals. Mr. Hanson says. All records made on such machines when officially operated are recognized by the Horse and Mule Association of America. A 4,300-pound team from Piqua, Ohio, holds the present world's record with a tractive pull of 3,900 pounds. John Adrian of Williams-ville holds the New York record for a tractive pull of 3,875 pounds. This is a former world's champion team. According to Mr. Hanson, these are records for heavyweight teams but should not discourage the owners of smaller teams from competing. Special classifications are made according to weight, and records officially made are recognized. Premiums are offered in all classes.

Maverick Players At Rotary Luncheon

Robert Elwyn's Maverick Players gave Rotarians and guests a sample of their talent yesterday noon in the Governor Clinton in one of the most unique and different programs the Rotary has enjoyed in several months. Mr. Elwyn brought several of the members of this year's cast as guests of the local service club and the only regret in the program was its necessary shortness. With Mr. Elwyn were Betty Stiller, Velma Rorton, Robin Batchelor, Harriett Marshall and Betty MacDonald.

The program was under the guidance of Joseph Morgan of Rotary and he immediately turned the program duties over to Mr. Elwyn, who introduced the members of his cast. Betty Stiller materialized the group with a comedy monologue and she was followed by Robin Batchelor, who delivered a humorous monologue. Both received hearty applause for their efforts. Miss Velma Rorton then spoke of the aims and objects of the Maverick Players.

The Rotary Club also added to its membership last week by initiating Vincent A. Gorman into membership. Incidental singing during yesterday's program was led by the Rev. Clarence Brown with Samuel Scudder, Jr., at the piano.

In the matter of entertainments, grandmas had a master touch that is frequently missing in our modern meals. Grandmas may not have been conversant with the well-known dishes were stimulating the secretion of the gastric juices and no belching digestion, but she knew that they tasted good and gave folks who ate them pleasure.

Landon's Aunt Counts ON WHITE HOUSE VISIT

Erie, Pa. (AP).—Governor Alf M. Landon's oldest living relative says she expects to spend her 1937 vacation at the White House.

She is Mrs. Emma Jane Dumars Linger, a great aunt, now 83 years old, who recalls fondly the fishing trips she made with her nephew in this state when he was about 12.

Busy Program at Hasbrouck Park

Saturday morning, as a climax to a busy week, a fine group of boys and girls took part in a Treasure Hunt over the nature trail in Hasbrouck Park, and five were awarded prizes for their watchfulness in finding the various markers which had been distributed. Winners were Clayton and George Brook, Edward Argulewicz, Carmilla Costello, and Helen Smith. Another Treasure Hunt is being planned.

During the week, the young people numbering hundreds daily, were amused with various athletic games and contests, including soft and baseball, volley ball, newcombe, horseshoe pitching, and many quiet games.

A library of assorted books was opened for use, and approximately 50 books are available for those who desire to read. Numerous bird houses are being built, using all of the ready supply of cheese and cigar boxes, and some even using rustic woods, white birch and aspen.

"Nature" walks were taken through the trails of the park, and collections of leaves and rocks were made. These are to be mounted, and displayed at a later date. Also included in the nature work of the playground, is the dissection of various kinds of animals. So far the development of the bee has been studied, and a snake has been dissected in the presence of an interested group.

Several types of handicraft have been started, clay-modeling, making of Chinese coolie hats, celophane belts, basketry, and woodworking. Pushmobiles and homemade games are being made, and are to be displayed.

The rock formation of the park was studied under the competent leadership of Glenn W. Young, and a fine collection of rocks and fossils has been made.

A welcome relief on the hot days is the wading pool, which does its share in attracting the boys and girls to the park.

Besides these various activities, a park council has been formed and various officers are to be elected to direct the activities at the park for the boys. The girls have already completed their organization, and are aiding in carrying out of the program. The officers of the Girls' Organization are as follows:

Mayor—Frances Cullen
Judge—Anna Naccarato
Sheriff—Marie Flynn
Secretary—Florence Argulewicz
Aldermen—Dorothy Cullen, E. Mae, and J. McGowan.
Police—A. Gilbert and Violet Stalters.

Nurses—J. Wasielewska and E. McCloskey.
The park is in need of all sorts of handicraft materials, tools, athletic equipment, games of all types, checker boards, books, cardboard, lumber, and in general anything which is to be discarded, but can still be used by young people. Call 2051 or 2898 and someone will be sent for the articles.

Overheard in the office. "That husband of Ruth Bryan Owen is a lucky dog." "Yes, and he's a great Dane."

800 To Take Test for Troopers

Albany, N. Y., July 16 (AP).—Eight hundred applicants are prepared today to take the first of a series of tests for appointments as state troopers. Approximately the same number from the New York City area took the examinations yesterday. Those receiving a passing mark in the initial tests—mental examination—will be eligible to take future examinations of personal requirements and physical condition. Out of the successful applicants 16 troopers will be chosen by Major John A. Warner, superintendent of state police, and 150 others will be placed on a reserve list.

Next to the growth and heat, this summer's biggest problem seems to be the regulation of building suits. Yes, the world's crazy. But the sewing thing about it is that so many of us know it.

HARRY THAW'S SON TO WED

Russell W. Thaw, 25, of White Plains, N. Y., and Katherine Emily Roberts of Los Angeles, filed notice in Los Angeles of intention to be married. Thaw, an aviator, is the son of Harry K. Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. (Associated Press Photo)

Events Around The Empire State

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 16 (AP).—County Medical examiner Samuel Appel issued a suicide today in the death of Altheus Randall, 32, of New York, a parole patient at Harlem Valley State Hospital, whose body was found in the hospital reservoir. Randall had been missing since Sunday.

Olean, N. Y., July 16 (AP).—Large crews were fighting three forest fires today within a ten mile radius of this city at Vandalla, Smith Hollow and Godfrey Hollow.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 16 (AP).—Police watched the lower river for the body of a man who leaped into the swirling Niagara below the falls and disappeared yesterday. Russell Shields identified a hat found on the shore as that of his father, D. J. Shields, veteran postal worker. Employees of the Maid of the Mist, sightseeing steamer, saw the man jump into the river and made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue him.

MAN WITH BROKEN NECK WONDER HOW HE DID WORK

Medina, N. Y., July 16 (AP).—Charles W. Howard, 45-year-old farmer and Orleans county court clerk, wondered today how he was able to do his chores for three weeks with a broken neck. On June 23 Howard fell from a loaded hay wagon. The next four days he stayed home. Then he went back to work, performing all the usual farm jobs except to drive a tractor. He said the jaws hurt.

A few days ago he rode into Rochester and went to a hospital for an X-ray.

"Suddenly," he said, "I became aware two doctors were standing in a corner whispering and looking at me. One of them came over and said: 'My Gosh, man, you've got a broken neck.' And was I surprised."

The doctors put Howard's neck in a cast and now he's back on the job again.

Increases for Milk Producers Effective

Albany, N. Y., July 16 (P).—Increases in prices paid to New York state producers for milk utilized in five classifications became effective today to offset what State Agriculture Commissioner Peter G. Ten Eyck described as rapidly rising feed costs caused by the drought.

Under the order announced last Saturday after a public hearing, producers will receive 25 cents per hundredweight more for milk used in the manufacture of fluid cream, plain condensed milk, soft cheeses and ice cream in New York city. This will bring the price to $1.90 per 100 pounds.

At the same time, consumers will pay one cent more for a half-pint bottle of heavy, medium and light cream, Ten Eyck said.

Producers of milk used in the manufacture of ice cream outside New York city and cream cheese throughout the state will receive an increase of 15 cents per hundredweight.

ETIQUETTE OF COMPLIMENTS

How few people accept a compliment gracefully!

It seems to throw them into a flurry. "Aw, do you think so?" they stammer, or "You're just selling me your line," or "Thanks for them kind words." It's littered with gawky, flapping gestures.

They give the idea that the compliment isn't considered sincere. In just crude flattery. That's not kind or gracious.

Isn't it perfectly easy to say "I'm sure that's awfully kind of you," or "Of course I like to hear you say so," or "That's very encouraging to me."

If you want to be popular, make the other fellow feel he is liked, generous, polite. Thank people warmly and quickly for gifts, favors, aid of any kind. Acknowledge the little things, the placing of a chair, the opening of a door, with a sincere smile.

Cold or sickly smiles won't do. Nor mincing, formal, polite remarks such as "Good of you, I'm sure," or "I'm greatly obliged," uttered stiffly or "Anipply."

It's just by these small but enormously important details of etiquette that we are judged. Ignorance of correct form makes many people stiff, even snappish. Don't misrepresent yourself. Our 40-page booklet, Etiquette For Every Day, sets you right on every point that matters.

Good form in public, proper table manners, tips for hotel and theatre, travel, business.

Send 15c for our booklet, ETIQUETTE FOR EVERY DAY to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 108 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Crocheted Gloves Go Where You Go

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

This Shorter Cuff is Smart

PATTERN 5864

They want to "go where you go"—these lacy gloves, airy and cool by reason of their thousand mesh "eyes." You're going to want more than one pair when you learn how quickly these are crocheted of cotton. The hands take a simple, dotted mesh—the cuffs a diagonal mesh, for pretty contrast. And see, these boast the new and shorter length cuff that's crisp and flared and cool! In pattern 5864 you will find detailed instructions for making the gloves shown in a small, medium and large size (all in one pattern); material requirements; illustrations of the gloves and of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

The Shawangunk Mt. Huckleberries Are a Short Crop This Year

Shawangunk Mountain huckleberries are a very short crop this year, according to Ed Davis, a buyer who runs a commissary at what is known as the three-mile post, on the road running from Ellenville to Minerva, along the western side of the mountain. He says that the season is the worst he has known in the eight years he has been buying berries from the pickers, adding that there are few berries on the top of the mountain, there being hundreds of acres on which there are practically no berries.

The shortage is attributed to the cold weather running late into the spring and in addition, what berries there are have been seriously damaged by the excessive hot weather of late.

The condition is reflected in the market. Huckleberries are now selling at retail at from 23 to 28 cents a quart, whereas a year ago this time they could be bought at from 15 to 18c.

Mr. Davis says that pickers are bringing in only about a third, or less, the amount of berries they brought in in good seasons. Wednesday individual pickers selling to him brought in from six to 11 quarts apiece. In years past pickers have averaged from 25 to 40 quarts and good pickers have beaten the larger figure. He states that he has known buyers to take away, in one day, as high as 150 crates from the section in which he operates, but Wednesday less than 20 crates were brought out.

Due either to the poor picking, or perhaps because many who have formerly made a living picking huckleberries are now on relief, there are many less pickers on the mountain this year, according to Davis. He says there are only two families at the two-mile post, and at the three-mile post there are but 12, compared with 40 to 60 in other years.

In Mr. Davis's opinion those who are waiting till later in expectation of buying berries cheap for canning purposes are liable to be disappointed.

Camp Half Moon Doings Reported

Camp Half Moon, Cairo, N. Y., July 16.—Our first Mothers' Day which we had in camp yesterday proved to be one of the finest features of any camp season. Over 50 mothers together with many brothers, sisters and friends spent the afternoon and evening with us. Shortly after lunch hour cars began to arrive and by 2:30 the parking space was about filled. Guides were organized from members of the camp staff and campers and the parents were shown about the camp and had an excellent opportunity during the afternoon to watch the various events and to get acquainted with the various leaders. Many of the mothers showed a genuine interest in the kitchen and dining room operation and asked many questions as to how the various things were done.

In the evening we enjoyed a camp fire entertainment at which time the various village groups put on their village stunts and everyone had an opportunity to take part in the evening's fun.

A report from the water-front director, Doc Rathgeb, which has just been received by the camp office, tells us that the Beginners Swim Class has been showing marked improvement. Sheely, Miel, St. John, Cohen and Overberg are about to join the swimmers' rank. A number of newcomers joined the class this week and are making rapid strides toward the betterment of their swimming ability. A class in Junior American Red Cross Life Saving has attracted much attention and interest among the more advanced swimmers. Those who have shown ability in this field are: Matson, Turk, Zimmerman, Jowett, Clappett and Hoffman.

The archery at camp this year seems to be one of the major activities and under the leadership of Dean Shoup has progressed rapidly. Instruction in the art is given every evening at the archery range. The beginning of a tournament was held on the range Wednesday in order to show the camp the abilities of the advanced archers. The scores were as follows:

St. John 26, Kittle 40, Evert 28, Twerk 23, Miel 34, Keyser 32, Kearns 27, Ebeneth 21.

A beginners class is starting tomorrow for the many boys who seem to have an interest in this very interesting sport.

Our camp newspaper, Camp Half Moon News, has now had two weekly editions. The boys this year have worked harder on the paper than ever before and the staff is as follows:

Editor in chief—John Snyder.
Assistant Editor—Robert Deady.
Nature—Robert Deady.
Waterfront—Zimmerman.
Humorist—Doc Daley.
Flowers—Fritz Van Voorhis.
Indians—Don Evert.
Bancroft—Lincoln Graham.
Sports—Wiley Fisher.

General reporters—Bob Breitbard and Jack St. John.

An interesting feature this past week has been the Camera Mix in connection with the Nature Study group. Robert Deady, Sheely, Wiley and Zimmerman were the stars in this.

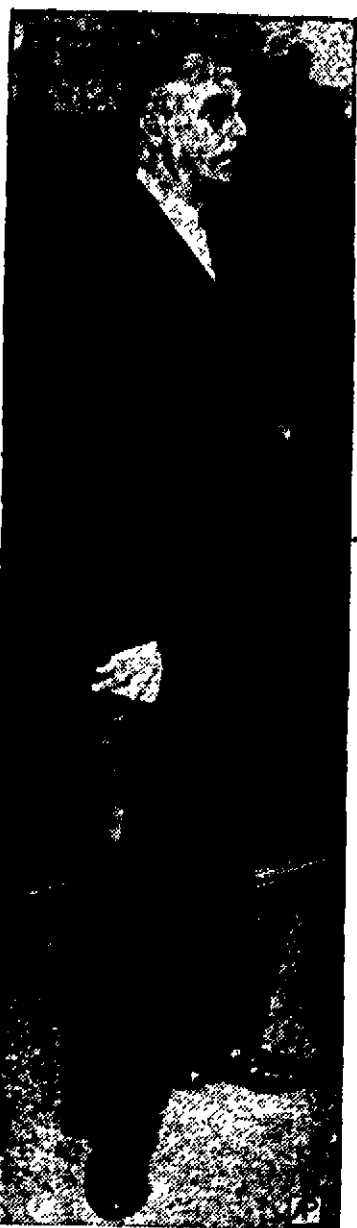

One of the most recent additions to the camp is the camp pet. This is a small cat named Kingbird who is looking out of the top of one's shoulder or head, eating out of the owner's hands, and has become the camp pet.

We plan to leave today, weather permitting, for our mountain trip which will bring us back into camp on Friday afternoon for the South in our various events and for the Court of Honor in the evening.

This first period of camp with campers and mothers on Sunday and the second period with boys with summer on Sunday night.

All of us who have been present during this first period have had a

Neighbor-Meets-Neighbor Theme Marks President's Canadian Trip

Franklin D. Roosevelt has been a frequent visitor in Canada where he has a summer home on Campobello Island, N. B., just across the American boundary. He has visited the island once since becoming President.

Washington (AP)—Neighborliness, in a double sense, will attend the meeting July 31 in Quebec of President Roosevelt and Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada.

They direct the government of adjoining nations whose relations for decades have been of the friendliest. In addition, the President has a summer home on Campobello Island, New Brunswick, a few hundred yards over the Canadian border. There he actually is neighbor to the governor general's people.

As governor of New York, Mr. Roosevelt twice visited the Dominion during yachting trips that took him into Canadian waters. Since becoming President he has visited Canada once, informally. In the summer of 1933 he cruised to Campobello and stayed almost a week.

Neighborly Nations

The President's and governor general's respective governments' frequently have been referred to as examples of good neighbors in international relations. The President himself has spoken in that vein.

Not since the Civil War, when the United States abrogated its commercial treaty with Canada, has there been a serious dispute between the two countries. Their common border is called the world's longest unarmored international boundary.

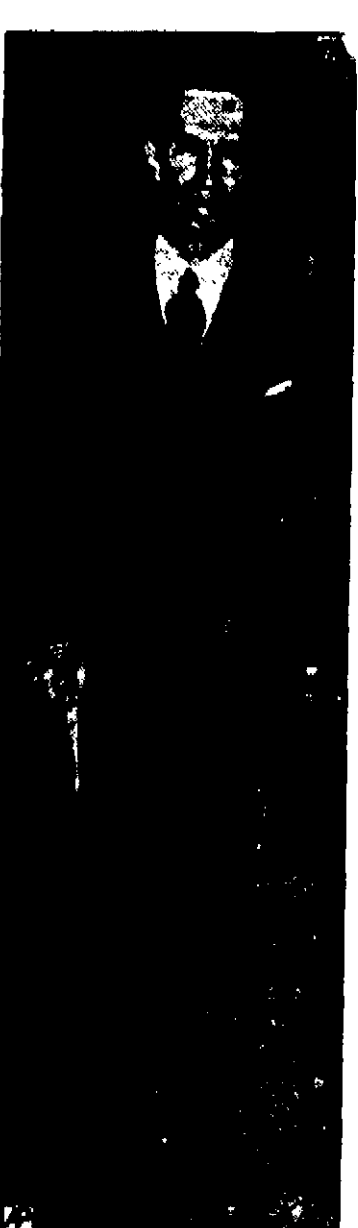

Canada is the second largest customer for exports from the United States, and the United States is the second largest market for Canada's exports.

Tourist Spending Gains

American tourists spent $71,000,000 more in Canada in 1935 than in 1934, and Canadian tourist spending in the United States gained $27,000,000 in the same period.

The reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and Canada, completed November 15, 1935, probably will be the main subject for "official" conversation between President Roosevelt and Lord Tweedsmuir.

Lord Tweedsmuir, christened John Buchan, was best known as a writer before he was named to represent the British Crown in Canada. One of his latest books is a thoroughly documented biography of Oliver Cromwell.

Lord Tweedsmuir, as governor general, heads the Canadian government whose reciprocal trade treaty with the United States may be discussed on President Roosevelt's forthcoming visit to Quebec.

Levy Brothers to Conduct "Open Shop"

Max Levy, formerly associated with his father, Lewis Levy, in operating the Rosemont Dress Company, 8 West Union street, told a reporter today that from now on the factory will be conducted by and under the name of Levy Brothers as an "open shop."

Several weeks ago labor trouble arose at the factory, and, as a result the place closed. It was a union shop, having a contract with the local garment workers association, signed by the Rosemont operators.

Lewis Levy carried on his business for 18 years, his son, Max, said. Recently he left Kingston to conduct a factory in Havana.

Associated with Max Levy in running the Levy Brothers concern will be his brother, Emanuel. Both are experienced in the dress business, Max having been with his father for 14 years or so and Emanuel for more than five years.

Agudas Achim Services Announced

The Bar Mitzvah ceremony of Seymour Kantowitz will take place at 9 a. m.

Services are also conducted at the synagogue twice daily 7 a. m. and 8:15 p. m.

"Cave-in-Rock" Was Known as Far Back as 1744

"Cave-in-Rock" is at the southern tip of Illinois Route No. 1, the Dixie highway. Long before it was known to white men, the Illinois tribes called it the "Habitation of the Great Spirit," says Chicago Daily News.

The first recognition it received by our forefathers was on a map in Charlevoix' "History of New France," published in 1744. At that time the cave was the center of Indian life along the lower Ohio river.

However, as the Indians gradually retired at the advance of the white man, the cave took on a more ominous meaning to the early settlers. It became the rendezvous of robbers who preyed on surrounding settlements and Ohio river traffic. Driven from the cave, the robbers were succeeded by a band of counterfeiters who operated there until cleaned out in 1831. Another band of robbers took up their abode there but their life of crime was short lived, the last of the gang being executed in 1834.

Ginger-Haired Tar Ordered From Mayor

London.—The mayor of Southampton is looking for a ginger-haired sailor. Recently he received the following letter:

"Dear Sir—Will you please help me. I have, since a small child, wanted to marry a ginger-haired sailor, but so far have never met one. I should be very grateful if you could put me in touch with a cheery sailor of from thirty-five to forty."

Vehicle Receipts Show Big Increase

Albany, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—Charles A. Hartnett, New York state commissioner of motor vehicles, said today the gross motor vehicle receipts for the state showed a gain of $2,366,000 for the first five months of 1936 as compared with the same period last year.

Receipts this year were $40,925,794 in contrast to $38,559,791 Hartnett said. "The substantial increase reflects the growth of transportation and a corresponding gain in the state's commercial and industrial activity."

Total registrations of motor vehicles for the five-month period this year were 2,134,071, an increase of 109,009 over the same time last year. The gain in registrations reflected in almost every class of cars, the department said.

Passenger car registrations in 1936 to and including May 31 were 1,791,688, compared to 1,704,112 on May 31 last year.

Sons of Legion Meeting.

An important meeting of the Sons of the American Legion will be held in the Memorial building this evening at 7 o'clock. Every member is asked to bring his Legion hat with him and to have his name printed inside the hat band. Among the several matters to come before the meeting will be the plans for the installation meeting which will be held in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium in the near future. Every member is urged to be present at the meeting this evening.

Butler Cites G. O. P. As Most Reactionary

New York, July 16 (AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler says the Republican platform is "the most reactionary in the party's history."

The Columbia University president, returning from Europe, issued a statement last night in which he asserted "the doctrines set out and defended in the Cleveland platform are economic nationalism of the narrowest and most dangerous sort."

"Those paragraphs which deal with a tariff and with foreign affairs," he said, "are, no doubt, satisfactory to a Hearst, a Democrat who has fought the Republican party, its candidates and its principles, with ferocity for forty years, or to a Borah who, from his place in the Senate, has led a small minority which has prevented the Republican party from executing its repeated pledge to the people to join other civilized nations in substituting judicial process for military force in the settlement of international differences and disputes."

"Those paragraphs cannot possibly satisfy any life-long Republican devoted to his party's ruling principles and ideals as expounded by the greatest of its leaders for a generation past."

The quality of about one-third of the commercial supply of fresh fruits and vegetables of the last 12 months was certified by government inspectors.

GET CHEAP HOMES IN MODEL VILLAGES

90 Cents a Month the Cost to Coolies in Shanghai.

Shanghai.—The city government of Greater Shanghai has opened four model villages for the poor, with houses renting for 90 American cents a month. This social housing scheme, under the direction of the labor welfare commission of Greater Shanghai, is the beginning of a construction program designed to provide sanitary, comfortable homes for the more than 150,000 Chinese poor who are now living in filthy mud and reed-hut dwellings in Shanghai's slums.

The commission, under the chairmanship of General Wu Teh-cheng, mayor of Greater Shanghai, was established in April, 1935, to improve housing of Shanghai's poor.

The problem has been aggravated by the influx of thousands of farmers, forced to desert the land because of drought or flood. These unskilled laborers generally become jinrikisha pullers or what coolies, and earn a precarious living on the borderline of starvation. Jinrikisha pullers alone number more than 80,000, and their dependents approximately 240,000. Most of these unskilled laborers live in mud or reed-hut dwellings, of which there are 30,000 in the slum districts of this city.

A survey of rents discloses that the average rental paid by the families of jinrikisha pullers in the International Settlement is $2.43 (73 American cents) a month, the highest being $5.10 ($1.54, American currency) and the lowest 90 cents (27 American cents). The average monthly rent paid by 53 Chinese girls, working in one factory in the International Settlement, is 90 cents (25 American cents).

The four model villages recently populated have an aggregate of 306 "A" type houses and 44 "B" type dwellings. In addition, each village has two dormitories for unmarried persons.

The "A" type dwellings, fireproof and waterproof and provided with plenty of light, consist of a kitchen, toilet, living room and an upstairs sleeping room. These houses rent for $1 (50 American cents) a month. The "B" type houses, which rent for $1 (51.21, American currency), have three rooms, in addition to a kitchen and toilet, and have no second story.

Early Fire Fighters

Fire fighting paid in the early days of this country. The Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., says that communities often paid fees for putting out fires. Insurance companies were also glad to reward firemen who saved injured property. Fire trucks, built from pieces placed on the fronts of houses signifying that they were insured with certain companies, spared the firemen in extra efforts to save such houses. Many companies raced to the fire. The stories of these races constitute some of the most colorful episodes in the history of the fighting. Often, saving of property was a secondary factor in what was primarily a sporting event. All sorts of tricks, some of them rather unsportsmanlike, were used to slow up a rival.

What of a good time and we are looking forward to next summer when we may repeat this camp experience.

CAMP REPORTERS.

Challenges Fly at Cops' Banquet After The Newburgh Game

After the baseball game the Kingston police lost to Newburgh, Wednesday, the local cops and a group of guests, headed by Mayor Conrad J. Helselman, were entertained at a turkey dinner in the Elks' Club by the tossers of Chief Fred Brown who were much elated over their 7-5 victory.

Chief Brown let this be known, and also that he thought his tossers were superior to those coached by Sergeant James V. Simpson, despite the fact that the Simpsons defeated the Hilly City night stick wielders earlier in the season as a feature of the Mayors' Conference held in Kingston.

Mayor James Tweed of Newburgh sided in with the chief and hurled a challenge to the Kingstonians for next year, which made Sergeant Simpson lean forward in his chair, meaning that it surely will be accepted. Mayor Helselman clenched his fists, too, after the remark and if such be possible will be at the games rooting harder than he did yesterday.

Mayor Helselman was hoarse after the game as he walked out of the dugout, bound for the Elks' Club to make a speech and tell the Newburghers that they wouldn't have won if they hadn't taken advantage of the darkness that fell over the field at the end of the game, which terminated in the seventh inning, when the Brownmen scored three runs to put them ahead by one point.

Hamilton Confers With Ely Today

Springfield, Mass., July 16 (AP)—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, conferred here today with one of the five Democrats who in concert protested against renominating President Roosevelt—former Governor Joseph B. Ely, of Massachusetts. Their talk took place over the breakfast coffee cups.

Cases Today Before City Judge Culloton

Ira C. Bell, 31 Lindsley avenue, arrested by Edward H. Franz, for reckless driving, after a collision, Monday, July 13, was discharged by Judge Bernard A. Culloton after a hearing in city court this morning. The judge contending that there was not enough evidence of sufficient negligence to convict Bell.

Wesley Holmes, 203 Elmendorf street was fined $3 for driving without a license; Frank Smith, R. F. D. Kingston, $2 for passing a stop sign; and James A. McHugh, colored, New York city, forfeited $5 bail on a charge of passing a red light.

Huppenbauer Arrested
William A. Huppenbauer of 21 Voorhees avenue was arrested this morning on a warrant by Deputy Sheriff Charles Newkirk of New Paltz and taken to that village for a hearing before Justice I. C. Barnes. The warrant charged petit larceny.

Bringing their own automobiles with them in the Conard White Star superliner Queen Mary, nearly 400 British motorists will tour the United States and Canada this summer. The first of four scheduled tours will start when the Queen Mary docks at New York city on July 27, and three more are to follow on the next three successive crossings of Britain's greatest ship.

Attempt To Kill Edward VIII Today

thrown into consternation by the incident.

Newspaper extras were swept off the stands by excited throngs seeking to learn every word of the escape of their king.

Had Been at Hyde Park.

The king had ridden to Hyde Park to present new colors to six battalions of foot guards.

Dense, cheering crowds lined his route from Buckingham Palace to the place of the ceremony. With the king rode his brother, the Duke of York, Queen Mary and other ladies of the royal family watching.

The Evening Star reported the revolver landed 20 yards from the king just after he had passed through the arch at the head of Constitution Hill.

An alleged eyewitness, however, said the missile actually struck the flank of the king's horse.

Another witness said: "I was watching the king riding along when I became aware of a commotion. 'I saw a revolver lying in the middle of the road.'

"A mounted policeman got off his horse and picked it up. For a moment, the king looked as though he intended to dismount, but he rode on."

A woman eyewitness said: "As the king had just ridden through the arch, a man rushed up from somewhere near the back of the crowd."

Gripped by Woman.

"He appeared to be holding a revolver. He hand was gripped by a woman and a policeman."

"It all happened in a flash. Police rushed to the spot and the man was taken away."

First reports of the incident indicated spectators had mobbed the man, but it later developed he was merely taken quickly into custody by police.

After riding back to Buckingham Palace and through the gates, the king quietly saluted Queen Mary on the balcony and disappeared into the inner courtyard.

Another eye witness said: "I saw two men being hustled away. Each had four policemen around him and there were three or four mounted policemen with them. Motorcycle police were there, too."

Had Pleaded for Peace

In presenting the new colors the king said "Humanity cries out for peace and an assurance of peace."

"Only a few of us on parade this morning know the awful weight of war with all its horrors," he declared. "With all my heart I hope and, indeed, I pray that never again will our generation be called on to face such stern, terrible days."

"You will find in peace opportunities of duty and service as noble as any that by-gone battlefields can show."

Scotland Yard's Statement

Scotland Yard issued the following statement:

"During the return journey of the royal procession from the presentation of colors to the brigade of guards in Hyde Park this morning, a man pushed his way to the front of the crowd near Wellington Arch on Constitution Hill."

"Exactly what followed has not yet been ascertained, but a revolver fell in the roadway between the king and the troops following him."

"A man was immediately arrested and taken to Hyde Park police station."

"Not a shot was fired, but the revolver was found to be loaded in four of its five chambers."

"Eye witnesses of the incident did not mention any attempt to fire the revolver."

"Then a mounted policeman jumped off his horse very hurriedly and grabbed something lying in the roadway—some people thought it was a bomb."

"Then policemen grabbed hold of a man and rushed him away."

Violence Is Rare

Attempts at violence against members of the royal family are rare in Great Britain.

One of the last occurred May 11, 1935, at the jubilee celebration in Belfast when a resident of a home threw a bottle at the Duke of Gloucester's automobile.

A similar incident occurred July 14, 1934, in Edinburgh, when a bottle was thrown at the car in which King George and Queen Mary were returning from the Hamilton races.

Thought Edward Aware

C. Harold Elnecke, musician and church organist of Grand Rapids, Mich., who is on vacation in London, said: "I was standing just at the top of Constitution Hill when I noticed the king looking steadily toward the left."

"I think from his rigid attitude he must have spotted something. Certainly his horse seemed to sense something was wrong, for it looked uneasy and its ears were twitching."

"Then, just as the king passed, there was a scuffle and a man rushed out from the crowd."

"The king seemed completely unmoved but the excitement of the crowd nearby was intense. Soldiers and police rushed forward."

"A number of women in the crowd screamed and several fainted. They were quickly attended by ambulance men."

After staying only a short time in Buckingham palace, the king motored to St. James' palace for luncheon and to deal with state papers.

Afterward he went by automobile to his summer residence, Fort Belvedere.

Photographer Arrested.

The police took into custody a man who had made a photograph of the incident so promptly that his picture showed the revolver flying through the air.

They also held for questioning two women who said they had witnessed the whole affair.

The Duke of York, who was riding immediately behind the king, saw the entire disturbance.

Excitement and consternation prevailed throughout the city to an extent unparalleled since the days preceding the death of King George.

Afternoon newspapers showed a picture of a bare-headed, full-faced man in the grip of four husky bobbies.

Only one afternoon paper called the incident an attempt on the king's life, the others carefully stating: "man points revolver toward the king."

Credit was given to a "woman in grey" who was believed to have knocked the revolver from the man's hand.

Sir John Simon, home secretary and thereby in charge of the police, informed the house of commons in grave tones of the incident. He repeated the Scotland Yard statement almost word for word.

In conclusion, Sir John said: "The whole house will be profoundly thankful that the risk to which his majesty was exposed was so promptly averted."

Sweltering delegates wildly cheered the gaunt pension chief's attack on the Roosevelt administration for "deliberate and devilish planning" to break down the American government.

Chemical-Treated Water Replaces Soil In Scientist's Prolific Vegetable Garden

Dr. W. F. Gericke, University of California scientist, just picks his potatoes. They grow as shown at left except for a covering of excelsior which has been cleared away. Nourishment is drawn from chemically treated water in a tank below the wire netting which supports the crop. Dr. Gericke is shown at right with his wife, harvesting tomatoes grown by the same process.

By SAM JACKSON

Berkeley, Calif. (P)—For seven years Dr. W. F. Gericke of the University of California has been demonstrating that you don't need a farm to be a farmer.

Using tanks of chemically treated water instead of soil, he has produced fruit and vegetable yields 10, 20 and 50 times as great as those from ordinary truck gardening.

Now his new plant growing process, which Dr. Gericke says will revolutionize agriculture, has passed the laboratory stage and is being launched on a commercial scale.

He has installed his equipment in tomato greenhouses in Capitola and Montebello, Calif., and has arranged for nurserymen in other parts of the country to try it with varied crops.

Tanks His Garden
For his water gardens Dr. Gericke uses tanks 10 feet long, 2 1/2 feet wide and 8 inches deep. Over these he places a screen of ordinary "rabbit wire" and covers this with excelsior, straw or coarse sawdust and shavings.

This layer serves the double purpose of supporting the plants and helping maintain the temperature of the water at 70 to 85 degrees Fahrenheit.

Seeds or shoots are placed on the excelsior, covered with another layer of the same material and left to sprout and grow. Their roots go down into the water to draw not only moisture but nourishment.

"Food" Dissolved In Water
The nutrient elements which plants normally get from the soil are dissolved in the water. Bottles containing a mixture of ten or more chemicals are placed in the tanks for slow dissemination.

The nutrients, Dr. Gericke says, are the same as found in the soil, but the composition of the mixtures has not been revealed.

Dr. Gericke has grown tomatoes yielding ripe fruit for eight to nine months of the year. The plants have grown 25 feet in length, with heavy trusses of fruit through their entire length. The local fruit markets, he says, have graded them as superior.

Tomato Yield Heavy
His tomatoes, Dr. Gericke says, have yielded 10 to 14 pounds per square foot of tank surface. Translated into acreage figures, this would mean production of 200 to 300 tons an acre, whereas the normal yield is five tons.

In his own greenhouse on the University of California campus, Dr. Gericke has grown beets, carrots, lettuce, beans, tobacco, potatoes and other crops—all without benefit of soil.

He also has produced gladioli and gardenias by the water-growth method, and now is experimenting with tropical fruit.

Potatoes have been produced at a rate of 3.4 pounds per square foot of surface, or roughly 20 times the normal rate. Tobacco, later analyzed and found of high quality, has shot up to a size that dwarfs the normal plant.

"Revolutionary" Process

"This water-growing process is revolutionary—the discovery of a new continent," he exclaims. "We have shown for the first time that man is independent of the soil."

"The technique now must be worked out for each crop and climate. This involves tests conducted over a fairly wide area. Such tests will be in the form of actual commercial enterprises, like those already operating at Capitola and Montebello."

"From these tests I hope to obtain sufficient information to prepare directions for raising any crop, and I will make these directions available to the people. The method will be for unrestricted use. It is something which, by its very nature, cannot be monopolized."

"The nations that now have the most serious problem of land shortage—Italy and Japan—are well suited for this method of agriculture by their mild climate and abundance of water," Dr. Gericke says. "It should enable any country to support its population and become self-contained from the food standpoint."

back to Stone Ridge after being in a hospital at Syracuse for some time and later taking treatment. She was in an auto accident last fall on her way home from Syracuse.

SHOKAN

Shokan, July 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Terhune, Jr., of New York were week-end guests at the Shokan House. The Terhunes brought with them their new baby daughter, born since the couple last visited Shokan.

Mrs. M. Scheyer, Mrs. H. Waller and Miss E. J. Fuller have returned to their home at the Hotel Alexandria, New York, after spending an enjoyable 10 days' vacation with Mrs. C. G. Fuller of Mountain Laurel Lodge.

Earl North, mountain road building contractor, has completed some fireplace and other stone masonry work for Chichester residents.

Haying is still in full swing with a number of farmers and in many cases the crop is exceeding expectations, both as to quantity and quality. The mixed wild grasses on fairly moist land have stood the drought well, though clover in some fields dried up so quickly that this valuable legume was almost a total loss. There is still much hay to be harvested here, including oats which are cut green for fodder. Oats for grain will probably be ready about the first of next week.

Mrs. Mary Jensen, Walter Naughton and Thomas Schneider, all of the metropolitan sector, are numbered among the guests at the Winchell Farmhouse.

F. J. Robinson of New York spent the week-end with his grandchildren, Annette, Lola and Robert Robinson. Mrs. Cohn, mother of Dr. Hans J. Cohn, is ill at the residence of the doctor in the village. The elder Cohns came over from Germany several weeks ago for a visit with their son and family.

Justus North has employment as foreman on road construction work in the southern part of the town of Olive.

July 15, 1913, the marriage took place of Ward Griffin, Pine Hill, to Grace Every of West Hurley. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Gilbert D. Fisher, pastor of the West Hurley M. E. Church. Witnesses to the nuptials were Edward and Lillian Every. The bride, a former Shokan girl, was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Every.

Mrs. Clement Chase, who has a summer home on the old Peter Winchell place, was a caller in the village recently.

There appear to be more city people in Shokan and adjoining communities than in any summer during the past several years. Shokan, being the hub of the reservoir country, naturally draws business callers from a wide area. Doubtless with the return of good times this section will again be a popular resort for summer boarders as it now is for city folks having country homes here.

Mrs. C. G. Fuller reports an undiminished flow of water from the never-falling springs on her north boulevard property. Several of Mrs. Fuller's neighbors are now using the water on this place for drinking and cooking purposes.

Unexplained headless mummies, dating back to the ancient "basket-maker" culture, have been found buried in the American southwest.

Rumor of Scarlet Fever Epidemic Is Reported Baseless

A rumor about the streets this morning, which presumably grew as it went along, stated that there was an epidemic of scarlet fever in Ellenville, with 110 cases and two deaths already reported.

A call to DeLois Craft, town clerk of the town of Wawarsing, and a resident of Ellenville, brought the reply that so far as he knew there was no scarlet fever at all in the village. Mr. Craft's statement was corroborated by Justice Melvin D. Schoonmaker of Ellenville.

This latest activity of the B. S. L. could have serious consequences to the community affected as such a rumor, if accepted as truth, would work untold damage to a place which is a center of an extensive summer guest resort business.

ANCIENT SKELETONS FOUND BY 2 GIRLS

Students Aid in Excavating Arizona Ruin.

Kansas City.—High on an Arizona mesa in the foothills of the mountains, near a worn Apache trail, the only two girls in Kansas City to study the prehistoric culture of the New world, Mary Jane Haden and Virginia Nart spent ten weeks doing field work under the direction of Dr. Byron Cummings, says the Kansas City Star. It was while assisting in the excavation of the great Kinshaba ruin near Fort Apache that they unearthed an entire room, finding three skeletons and many important relics.

"The ruin which we were uncovering," says Miss Hayden in telling of their experiences, "was called Kinshaba (brown house), the name handed down by legend, as these early inhabitants of the Southwest had no written language. Kinshaba is a tremendous ruin, one of the largest ever discovered in the United States, and is divided into eight separate groups of which one was being excavated. In this group 87 rooms and a patio had been uncovered when we commenced our work.

Rooms Doorless, Windowless.

"It is believed that Kinshaba was built between the dates 1200 and 1320 and was originally a two-story house. The first floor rooms have no windows, no doors and were apparently used for storage. Doctor Cummings is of the opinion that the whole upper story burned and fell into the lower because of the large amount of charcoal and debris as well as doorway slabs found in the excavated rooms.

"In the hope of uncovering another room we were assigned a plot just back of a line of excavated rooms, so we were reasonably certain that we would find some relics before we had dug very deep.

"Using picks, shovels and trowels, we turned up the earth near the back wall, as our most important job was to locate the walls of our room and from them to designate the position of every relic which we found.

"We were required to level off the ground at every foot, lifting off layers of dirt instead of digging holes. About nine inches down we unearthed the first evidence of prehistoric life—a mano or stone implement for grinding corn. In quick succession we turned up rubbing stones, stones for smoothing arrow shafts, polishing stones for making pottery, prayer stones and fragments of pottery.

Paints Mixed for Use.

"There were bone relics, too—deer bone, coyote, rodent, bone flints and scrapers for cleaning skins, bone daggers and awls, needles, horn chippers. There were paint dishes made of hollowed-out stone, and nearby small quantities of paint, ground and mixed for use.

"We found spindle whorls made of clay and used in winding yucca yarn, ornaments of shell and bone, pendants, arrowheads and spear points and bracelets. One of the most interesting of these ornaments was a turquoise bead, then a rare and difficult stone to obtain, as few are found in ruins.

"We were down more than five feet before we found our first skeleton.

"Thus far only the bones of babies have been found in the ruins, the bodies of the adults having been placed in a burial ground across the arroyo. Twelve babies, however, were found buried in one room of the ruin, and we found three in ours. The skull of one had been cracked, leading us to believe that the child had been killed in a fall from the second story."

Proves Early Indians Not Primitive Savages

Tucson, Ariz.—Reconstructing in the laboratory life in North America centuries before the time of Christ, a botanical wizard in detective work established that the early Red Man was not quite the primitive savage many archeologists had pictured him.

According to the sensational finds of Dr. A. F. Henshaw, University of Arizona scientist, the Indian of 2,000 to 3,000 years ago wore attractive clothes not only from hemp and cotton, but also from mohair, kept dogs as pets and moved goods from tribe to tribe through regular trade channels.

Through chemical and microscopic analyses this Sherlock Holmes of the botany world has been studying articles which the Peabody Museum of Harvard excavated from ancient ruins in Arizona, New Mexico, California, Utah and Texas.

He found warm furs made from beaver, goats and dogs—and a few furs made from human hair. He learned that mohair had evidently been bought and sold from tribe to tribe, finally reaching places where it is doubtful if the Indians could have possessed goats. He came across yucca and century plants where the fibers had been used in giving strength to garments.

Cafe Owners Are Worried Over Requests for Crew

Tulosa, Okla.—Dr. Elmer I. Tolbert, president of the Okla. Crew Sundry association, seems to have Okla. restaurant owners worried. Shortly after introducing crew as a culinary delicacy at a banquet in a Columbia hotel he received this appeal from the maître d'hôtel: "Since your meeting we have had several requests for crews in our dining room. We shall appreciate it if you can let us know where we can buy crews and about what the price will be."

Regardless of the nice speeches made to the contrary the world still continues to have the value of people on the amount of money they have. Unfortunately in too many instances it doesn't change to measure the closely into how they come into their money.

Attorney Gillette Injured In Crash

An accident this afternoon about 2 o'clock on the Marbletown road, about six miles from Hurley, injured two men, it was reported, one of them Attorney DuBois Gillette of New Paltz. The extent of his injuries could not be learned before press time.

Deputy sheriffs were investigating the accident when The Freeman went to press, and the causes of it could not be ascertained because the probe had not been completed. No arrests were made, according to the latest information.

France Traces Marianne Back to the Revolution

Paris.—Like America's Uncle Sam and England's John Bull, France has her Marianne; and, like Uncle Sam's and John Bull's, Marianne's origin has been a question of lively debate. However, according to researches which have been carried out, it would appear that the name had its origin in Montpelier, in central France, at the time of the reign of Louis.

At that time the name Marianne, derived from Mary Magdalen, was applied to women of doubtful morals. According to this explanation, one of these women was once called upon to represent the goddess of reason in a republican fête at Montpelier. The chance was too good a one to be missed, and the name "Marianne" took it, and from then on dubbed the personification of the new regime with this name.

There is another similar version which says that a "Marianne" was the mistress of Charlemagne, a member of the convention, who liked to see his partner parade at republican festivals representing the goddess of reason.

The two explanations are so similar, that there can be little doubt here but the origin of the now respected name of "Marianne," whose simple figure personifies the republic of France.

YOUTH, CAUGHT IN MACHINE, PUT UP BRAVE FIGHT

Weehawken, N. J., July 16 (AP)—Crushed in a dough-mixing machine and in danger of losing both his arms, 14-year-old Joseph Della Fave, was putting up a brave fight for his life today at North Hudson Hospital.

Physicians sewed up his mangled arms, but said he might lose one or both if he survived the loss of blood and shock. The boy remained conscious throughout the 20 minutes it required for police and firemen to cut the iron casing of the mixer, remove the axle bearings and turn the blades to free him.

While helping clean the machine at his uncle's bakery, his right arm struck the switch, starting the large iron "lawnmower" blades whirling. His left arm, still in the machine, was caught and his whole body was drawn into the mixer and around the blades. His head alone remained outside.

Polly Begins Divorce Suit, Husband Objects To Title "Mr. Polly"

MR. AND MRS. MARTIN MALONE

AP Photo

Beverly Hills, Calif., July 16 (AP)—Even a doctor couldn't keep Polly Moran in bed today as the plump star of film comedy set out to divorce the real estate broker who didn't like being called "Mr. Polly Moran."

The broker's most important engagement, however, is 13 days hence. Under his real name of Martin Malone he must appear in justice court July 29 for preliminary hearing on charges he assaulted his actress-mate with a deadly weapon when the dawn came up on Beverly Hills yesterday.

Polly, a veteran of 23 years of movie making, said she would consult her attorney on the question of marital freedom from the 32-year-old Malone and take the required legal steps after the criminal case is settled.

"There's absolutely no chance for a reconciliation," she declared. "I feel sorry for Mr. Malone, but I'm through."

As Polly told the story, with gestures for the news photographers, highly dramatic incidents preceded the screams of "Don't kill me!" which aroused the neighborhood about the Malone-Moran mansion and brought a siren-screaming car of officers to the door early yesterday.

Prelude to Campaign.

"Marty is starting to campaign for some judge," the comedienne related. "So to help him, I suggested we begin a drive to get one of those firefighting machines for the forestry service boys. You know—it climbs hills, jumps over ditches and even survives earthquakes."

"So Marty went out Tuesday evening to see a man about a deposit on the outfit. About three o'clock he came in. I was just getting into bed. I saw something was the matter so I smiled and said pleasantly, 'What's eating you, Marty, you look awful!'"

"'I'll show you what's eating me,' he says, and he went over and got the gun out of the drawer. 'I'm going to blow your brains out and mine, too,' he says, 'and do you know why?'"

"'Put down that gun, Marty,' I said. 'I don't know what you're talking about!'"

"'Called me Mr. Polly,'"

"'Somebody just called me Mr. Polly Moran,' he says. 'What do you think of that?'"

Her husband, a former college boxing champion, flourished a .38 caliber automatic and pointed it at her, said Miss Moran. "And I looked down the barrel and saw a bullet sitting there."

"I screamed bloody murder, and kicked the telephone off the hook and mixed up the address of the house with the screams, like I've seen done in the movies."

"I guess an angel must have had her arms around me, because I heard the click-click-click of the gun but it didn't go off."

"A policeman told me later, lady, you're lucky. This gun jammed."

Sheriff's deputies Walter Schottmiller and Robert Jurgeson said they found Malone waving the automatic at them and noted he had been drinking. He resisted arrest, they said.

The nervous, disheveled broker posted $500 bail to gain his freedom from the Beverly Hills jail.

"I must have been celebrating," he explained.

Compensation Court

Earthquake Awakens Seattle Residents

Spokane, Wash., July 16 (AP)—An earthquake of several seconds' duration awakened residents throughout most of the Pacific northwest late last night by rattling windows and furniture.

The tremors were the most severe felt here since last October 19 when the "backwash" of the quake which devastated Helena, Mont., was felt. The Montana city escaped last night's quake.

Minor shocks were reported throughout eastern Washington, northwestern Idaho and Oregon. Wenatchee, Wash., reported two separate shocks.

The quake was severe enough at Walla Walla, Wash., to send theatre patrons scurrying for the outdoors. Frightened upper floor apartment dwellers in Spokane, hurried from the buildings.

Yakima Valley farmers reported their houses shook and creaked. Dishes rattled in cupboards, chandeliers and floor lamps swayed and an occasional picture was dislodged.

At the present rate of statutory debt retirement amounting to $500,000,000 a year it will take until 1970 to repay the money we have borrowed since 1930. This is on the theory that no additional debts will be incurred, which of course is a supposition pure and simple, under present conditions.

Lewis' Homer in 7th Wins For Newburgh Police, 7-6

Healthy Clout to Deep Outfield Made in Dark After Hit by George Bowers Put Kingston Ahead in 6th by 6-4—We'll Get 'Em Sunlight Next Time, Says Mayor Heiselman.

Ed Lewis, big right fielder of the Newburgh Police baseball team, probably rode his motorcycle today with a double pair of sun glasses to keep from showing his bashfulness over a heroic day on the field of battle, Wednesday afternoon (night to be exact) when the Hilly City coppers defeated the towners of Kingston's Sergeant James V. Simpson, 7-6, thus avenging the setback handed them when they came here to play during the Mayors' Conference.

In the seventh and last inning of that Battle Royal yesterday, with two men out, and Sammy Foster, Newburgh pitcher, waiting on third base to dash home with the tying run, Lewis belted a homer to give the game to the home team and send several thousand fans out of the park cheering for their boys in blue. Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, sitting in the Kingston dugout with his full board of police commissioners—John N. Cordis, Joseph Disch, C. S. Preston and John R. Sterey—almost fainted when Lewis poked his long fly way out to center field. "There goes the game," said the mayor who had been one of the most enthusiastic rooters for his team, but shouted in a tone of consolation, "They had to wait until it got dark to do it."

It was almost 9 o'clock at night when Lewis socked one of Freddy Stoudt's slants to win the game, and there wasn't any light lit in the park until after the battle had been won. Then the place was illuminated by bright electric lights and even brighter spirit on the part of the Newburgh fans.

Get 'Em Next Time.
Yesterday was a great day for the great game, which started in the bright sunlight a little after 6:30 and finished in the twilight, winding up in a manner that made the home town rooters and team feel like a coop full of proud peacocks, and should serve to stimulate plenty of enthusiasm for next year's battle between the two friendly police teams. "We'll get you in the sunlight the next time," were Mayor Heiselman's parting words to the Newburghers. Chief Fred Brown's night stick widders were behind 4-6 at the beginning of the seventh, but came through in the final frame with three runs to cop the duke. Weller, the first man up, singled and scored after some poor throwing in the dark which was really off-set by some bright plays made earlier in the game by Sergeant Simpson's men. Haight and Edwards the next two up, went out, the first on a throw from Bill Leonard to Wes Cramer and the other from Len Relyea from behind home plate to Ed Leonard on second.

Then came the big finish with a flash for Newburgh when Sammy Foster leaned on one, stole second and third and trotted home ahead of Lewis who made the rounds for a homer on his long drive in the dark to the deep outfield.

Newburgh's other four runs were made in the third inning. Walks to Weller, the first up, and Edwards, and hits by Haight and Foster, with a few poor throws mixed in, accounted for the quarter of tallies. Outside of this frame and the seventh, the Brownmen were unable to do anything with the Simpsonites. A nice double play, featuring Ed and Bill Leonard and Wes Cramer stopped things in the first inning. In the second, fourth, fifth and sixth Kingston's fielders played like champs, and Freddy Stoudt did his share with strikeouts amounting to eight.

Kingston didn't get started with any runs until the third, when the Leonard Brothers, Ed and Bill, crossed the rubber on Fred Stoudt's two bagger. Ed Leonard scored again in the fifth, after getting a walk, and in the sixth trotted across the platter for the third time during the afternoon, together with Wes Cramer and Eddie Mahoney.

S. S. Manhattan Now a Gym as Athletes Settle Down to Training

Aboard S. S. Manhattan, Enroute to Berlin, July 16 (AP)—The Manhattan was turned into a compact gymnasium and sportsfield today as America's Olympic team, on its way to Germany, settled down to a daily training routine.

Under the watchful eye of the 38 coaches, managers and officials, most of the 224 men and women athletes donned their training togs—glad of the opportunity to stretch their legs. The ship's broad decks and a middeck swimming pool provided other places for loosening up muscles.

For the most part the men track and field athletes took it easy under orders of Head Coach Lawrence Robertson of Pennsylvania. His order applied especially to Gene Yonke and Glen Hardin, who are six pounds underweight.

The Hedricks made it two straight last night at the Athletic Field when they defeated the Berardi by 12-5.

Joe Brown took the mark for the winners and pitched shutout ball after the second frame, allowing seven hits, while his mates pounded the offerings of Dodge, Cullen and Chick for 10 bingles. The losers scored first in the opening inning, when Brown was wild. Three runs crossed the platter and two more tied up the score at the end of the second, after the Brewers had counted with five runs in their half. The Hedricks' attack in the first half of the third put the game on ice when seven runs were chalked on the score board. The outburst ended the scoring for the remainder of the game.

Hits by Murphy and Van Dersce started the attack on Brown in the first. Tiano hit a hard single to left that scored Murphy, while Van Buren came home on an infield grounder by Zady. Tiano scored the third run when Kelder made an error. Their lead was short lived as the Brewers started to hit old Jack Dodge hard in the first half of the second. Bing Van Elten led off with a double. Three errors by the Berardis followed as five runs came in. The A. C. tied up the count in their half of the second but the entire team fell apart in the third when a seven run Hedrick assault resulted from three walks, three hits and a passed ball. Dodge was retired and Cullen and Chick finished out the game.

Game Tonight.

The Gruenwalds and Kaslich A. C. will tangle tonight in a game that gives the Home Leaders a chance to tie for first place. Big Joe Maher will probably get the call from the Leaders with Kelly behind the plate. "Schoolboy" Bush is slated to toss for the Kaslichs with Joe Menning recording.

Yanks Split Twin Bill With Tigers Still Out in Front by Nine Games

(By The Associated Press)

Since figures, so they say, don't all this recent viewing with alarm over the so-called slump of the Yankee murderers' row seems much ado about nothing, despite the Detroit Tigers' sudden surge and the return of Manager Mickey Cochrane to the world's champions.

Cochrane, out for weeks with a nervous breakdown, came back from Wyoming yesterday, but the only celebration his boys gave him was a split in the doubleheader opening of their "crucial" series with the Yanks.

In spite of their more-or-less batting calmness, statistics show the Yanks are taking care of their American League lead.

Consider these pick-ups from the season's record books.

The Tigers have won 13 of their last 18 starts, to land in second place, yet the Yanks have taken 12 out of the same 18.

The league lead of Gehrig and company was 10½ games on July 14. A week ago, it was nine games. Today it still is nine games. At that rate—a game and a half every two weeks—it would take the Tigers until October 15 to catch up, but the season ends in September.

Since July 1 when the Yanks' slump was supposed to have started they have played 500 ball—winning six and losing six—which is close to good enough for an outfit sporting a big lead with the season well into its second half.

Since the first of the month they have been averaging 10 hits per game—enough to win ball games in most leagues.

They demonstrated that point yesterday by taking the nightcap of the twin bill 7-4 with a ten-hit attack, aided by a fielding collapse on the part of the Tigers, after losing to schoolboy Rowe 5-1 in the opener.

The National League lead meanwhile was undergoing a stretching. Full game by downing the Bees 10-0 while the up-and-coming Phillies pulled out a 5-4 win over the second-place Cardinals.

The Bees not only lost the game, but their ace hitter and first sacker, Xavier Jordan, as well. Billy Herman's spikes tore Jordan's heel open in the fifth inning. The Cleveland Indians, boosting their winning streak to five straight with a 6-4 edge over the Athletics, moved into third place in the American League, while the Washington Senators, falling before Vernon Kennedy's pitching and the aroused White Sox, 6-4, sank to fourth.

The Boston Red Sox stayed in the second division, although trouncing the lowly Browns 11-3 and 9-1 in a doubleheader.

The Pirates broke even in a twin with the Giants, winning the opener 5-4 but falling apart ahead and in the pitching department in the night cap to go down 14-4.

The Reds won a night game with the Dodgers 5-3, with Rookie Peach Davis doing some tight pitching.

Yesterday's STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Goose Goslin, Tigers, and Pat Malone, Yankees—Former's homer with two on clinched win in doubleheader opener while Malone's relief pitching saved nightcap.

Ken O'Dea, Cubs—Hit homer in 9th win over Bees.

Johnny Marcano and Fritz Osterweiller, Red Sox—Allowed total of 4 hits in taking doubleheader over Braves.

Bill Rubaker, Pirates, and Bill Terry, Giants—Former drove in two in doubleheader opener victory, while Terry's double, triple and single sent three runs across in nightcap.

Johnny Moore, Phillies—His triple and single scored three runs in 5-4 win over Cardinals.

Vernon Kennedy, White Sox—Ran Senators to eight hits.

Earl Averill and Hal Trosky, Indians—Each had three hits to lead 11-4 win over Athletics.

Bill Myers, Reds—His two singles scored in two runs in 5-3 win over Dodgers.

Along Came Bill and Took Judy to Napanoch

New York, July 16 (AP)—Along came Bill—and as a result pretty Judy Fowler is now Mrs. Bill Madden, instead of being on the U. S. Olympic swimming team which she feels sure she would have made if she hadn't married.

Judy related today a new version of the "along came Bill" theme which Torch-singer Helen Morgan used to croon perched on a piano.

She wasn't a bit sorry she threw her Olympic hopes overboard to become Mrs. Madden, wife of a blue-eyed actor, after a whirlwind courtship of two weeks and a day.

"Anyway, I have plenty of time for Olympic swimming—I'm just 17. I'll try for the team next time. Then, Bill can go along."

Slender, with a tuft of brown hair and big brown eyes, Judy—with Erna Kompa and Mavis Freeman—holds the American short course medley relay record. With "Dot" Dickenson and Eleanor Holm Jarrett, she has held the national indoor medley relay championship.

Now she's going to be "just a very attentive wife" for a while, and is joining Bill at Napanoch, N. Y., where he's playing in "Ten Minute Alibi."

"Bill isn't a regular husband—he's swell," she said.

"He's an idealist."

"An idealist?" queried a listener.

"Yes," explained Judy seriously. "I'm his ideal."

Ambers has been working for several weeks and reports that he is in fine fettle and confident that he will wrest the title from the great little Italian Al Welli, manager of Lou, is also sure that his charge will annex the championship in this return engagement. Charley Goldman, the old time bantamweight boxer, will be in charge of the training squad during a campaign that will last right up to a day before the fight.

Canzoneri rules an 8 to 5 favorite in the early betting, but the supporters of Ambers are sending in plenty of the coin of the realm that Lou will outscore the conqueror of the hard hitting Jimmy McLarnin. Many wagers have been made that Ambers will go the distance and grab the verdict with the championship attached.

Mike Balloise, the featherweight champion who was originally slated to meet Dave Crowley, the English title holder for fifteen rounds, will meet some other opponent. Crowley fractured a rib and had to withdraw from the match.

By LARRY BAUER

The best times to fish for bass during the hot summer months are from daybreak until sunup, and from sundown until dark. Some fish may be taken during the heat of the day, but they won't be the larger ones as the big fellows will seek the cooling depths.

Some years ago we took a float trip on a well-known bass stream in late July and early August. On mornings when the party got a late start the fishing was poor. Few bass were taken during the bright hot hours. Even live bait failed to lure em from deep holes.

Near sundown, however, the old fighters would start striking hard and would keep it up until it was too dark for casting. They took almost anything in the way of flies and plugs. As for the early hours, one chap took a 2-pound smallmouth on a No. 8 McGinty just at dawn while casting for pan fish for breakfast.

Float Trips Recommended.

By the way, those float trips provide something different for the vacation fisherman with a week or two to spend. They're mighty restful. You just cast your fly or plug from the flat-bottomed boat as the guide maneuvers the craft near likely-looking places. Or you loaf downstream on the shady side if the day is hot.

Remember way back when some folks said (maybe it was a joke) that alcoholic stimulants were good for snake bite? Well, 'tain't so. Increased heart action from a "shot" is harmful. The victim should be kept quiet so that the action remains normal.

Snake-Bite Remedies.

R. Martin Perkins, curator of reptiles at the St. Louis zoo, says there are four things to do immediately when a person has been bitten by a poisonous snake.

First, stop the flow of blood in the bitten arm or leg (90 per cent of all snake bites are in the extremities). Second, make an incision next to the fang punctures to their complete depth. Third, apply prolonged suction to the wound and fourth, keep the person quiet so that the heart action remains normal. Get a doctor as soon as possible.

The only four venomous snakes found in North America are the rattlesnake, copperhead, cottonmouth and the coral snake.

The bureau of biological survey announces it now has 2,100,000 acres of land either already developed or under development as refuges for wild ducks and geese. Two years ago there were 700,000 acres. The areas are located on the four main waterways—flying ways—the Atlantic, the Mississippi, the Central and the Pacific.

New York Amateur Golf Championship

Syracuse, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—Headed by the 23-year-old Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, defending champion, a field of upward of 200 linksmen began today the battle for the New York State Amateur Gold Championship over the rolling fairways of the Bellevue Country Club.

The slim Billows, fresh from his Jess Sweetser cup triumph at Mount Kisco last Sunday, ruled a slight favorite to retain the crown he won last year at Winged Foot. Mamaroneck, when he defeated Albany's young Jack Greavy in a thrilling 36-hole match.

Among others in the field, one of the largest ever assembled for the event, are Dick Chapman of the New York area, who recently annexed the Connecticut state amateur crown, William S. Meaney, Jr., of Winged Foot, Leo Kaufman of Gedney Farms, and Bill Ward, youthful Syracuse hopeful who won the Junior amateur several years ago.

The 32 lowest scores in today's qualifying round will be eligible to continue match play which begins tomorrow and ends Sunday with the 36-hole final.

Half smoked... Why?

You see them everywhere—these half smoked cigars. Snuffed out on ash trays . . . thrown away on the street. The reason? Bitter, bitey, raspy taste. None of that mildness with good, honest tobacco flavor you smokers want in a cigar.

WHY THESE BITTER, BITEY CIGARS?

The answer is this. All cigar tobaccos contain certain harsh, bitter elements. If not taken out, they cause bitey bitterness and raspy taste in a cigar.

Ordinary curing methods can't take them out. Other methods destroy the true tobacco flavor. Result—you either get a harsh, bitter cigar or one that is flat and insipid.

NOW BAYUK SOLVED THE PROBLEM

Bayuk invented a process that does things to cigar tobaccos never accomplished before. It not only removes the harshness and bitterness, but actually improves the tobacco flavor.

This process—covered by patent protection—enables Bayuk to give you a cigar like PHILLIES—mild, smooth, mellow from end to end. You enjoy—to the full limit—the rich, satisfying flavor of its fine Long-filler Havana and Domestic tobaccos.

PROVE THIS YOURSELF

If you're tired of bitter, bitey, raspy cigars—try PHILLIES. Let it show you why PHILLIES pleases the taste of more men than any other cigar in America.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Suffering

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. A. Lehardt's prescription—HEM-ROLD—to relieve itching, bleeding or protruding piles. This internal medicine acts quickly even in old stubborn cases. HEM-ROLD succeeds because it helps to heal and remove the affected parts and relieves blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this. It's why HEM-ROLD is the only medicine that cures piles. Druggists say one bottle of HEM-ROLD must relieve you of your Pile misery or money back.—Advt.

Greek Will Meet Greek at Golden Rule Inn on July 23

The Skoura-Varvitis Association, composed of former residents of the towns of Skoura and Varvitis, Greece, with their families, will celebrate the 30th anniversary of the organization of the society with a big picnic and dance to be held at the Golden Rule Inn Thursday evening, July 23.

It is expected that several hundred people will attend the affair and a big time is looked forward to. A feature of the evening will be dancing of some of the Greek national dances by older members of the gathering, many of whom have been residents and citizens of this country for approaching half a century.

The association has now about 175 members, many states of the Union being represented, from Vermont to Texas. The headquarters and office is in Kingston and all the officers are Kingston men, with a board of governors from various states.

John Booth of 309 Wall street, Kingston, is the president. Other officers are: Tony Nekos, 309 Wall street, vice-president; Nicholas Boonukos, 273 Fair street, secretary; Stephen Larios, 61 John street, treasurer.

The coming picnic will be the first in several years, the gatherings having been suspended during the depression. On a number of former occasions the annual picnics have been held in Kingston.

BETTER BUSINESS SEEN IN INCREASE OF BUYERS

New York, July 16 (AP)—Indications of improving conditions in retail business in the United States were seen today in an increase in the number of out of town buyers attending fall merchandise exhibits here this week.

These representatives of retailers throughout the country say that by all gauges of public inclination, more and better quality merchandise will pass over store counters this fall and winter.

"Buyer attendance is breaking all records in the 15-year history of the show," said one exhibitor, "they are ordering more than at any time since before the depression."

Aside from the increased orders now being booked, wholesalers declare, is the even more important fact that emphasis is centering on higher grade lines. The buyers insist that demand for colors and quality is reviving rapidly.

Wholesalers of higher priced women's dresses and other outer apparel, whose fall exhibits closed yesterday, said they had displayed to about 35 per cent more buyers than were present last year. Orders booked, they said, were much heavier.

The rug and floor covering show which closed last week met a similar response, the sponsors reported.

FILES SUIT FOR CHILD'S CUSTODY

In a suit filed in Los Angeles against Dr. Franklin Thorpe, her former husband, Mary Astor, film actress, asked full custody of their four-year-old daughter, Marilyn, with whom she is shown. Miss Astor charged her husband had threatened to blacken her reputation unless she gave up the child. (Associated Press Photo)

Opposite Stands on Merits of New Fare

New York, July 16 (AP)—Two large eastern railroads today took opposite stands on the merits of the new 2 cents a mile passenger rate.

Baltimore & Ohio, which had favored the policy of cheaper transportation costs, announced its passenger revenues in June showed an estimated gain of 15 per cent over the same month last year.

Showing less enthusiasm for the experiment, trustees of the New Haven Railroad, one of the largest passenger carriers in the eastern territory, declared that adoption of the reduced tariff was marked by a "retardation" of the previous rise in passenger revenues.

New Haven trustees tempered their doubt estimate of the fare cut results with the observation that the estimated loss of revenue was "substantially less than anticipated."

They figured that New Haven's June passenger revenues were about $150,000 short of what they would have been if the rate had remained at the old level of 1 1/2 cents a mile.

This assumed continuance of the 10 per cent passenger revenue gain shown in May.

POLITICS at Random

By BYRON PRICE

(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

LONG before the nation-wide campaign gets well under way, the prognosticators are busy informing the public who will win. It is possible to read daily that Chairman Whosis has announced the glorious and overwhelming triumph of his candidate, or that Senator Whatist has conducted a survey and finds his state safe for the ticket beyond the peradventure of a doubt.

Some political managers even are hauling out the adding machines, and counting with great exactitude the chickens from eggs not yet laid.

The reasons for this strange performance are something of a mystery. Perhaps the best explanation is that the practice of long-range political forecasting persists because no one has stopped to consider how foolish most of it appears under present-day conditions.

In by-gone times, there probably was a psychological advantage in claiming everything in sight. On many occasions, too, it probably was possible to get a rather definite line on the result, well in advance.

It is a disputed point how far either of these possibilities applies in these days of rapidly changing public opinion and widespread independent voting.

Damage Of Over-Confidence

THE theory of the extravagant political claim is, of course, that it helps the morale of party workers, throws fear into the ranks of the enemy and encourages doubters to leap for the bandwagon. But does it?

If party workers took the premature claims of their leaders seriously at all, wouldn't the result be over-confidence, leading to a slackening of effort?

Conversely, it may be disputed whether such claims damage the political opposition. Certainly there have been cases where the reverse was true—where too much arrogance on one side has angered and stimulated the other side, and has aroused a more desperate resistance.

So far as the bandwagon is concerned, the strength of its pull in national elections nowadays is open to serious question. Each reader can calculate for himself how many voters there are among his personal acquaintances who will be impelled on election day entirely by a desire to be on the winning side.

Such a desire may be a strong factor in some local situations, but it is difficult to visualize it, on practical terms, as turning the tide for or against any national ticket.

Conditions Prevent Forecast

IN THE campaign of 1936 all sorts of cross-currents are at work. It would be a miracle if, four months before the election, anyone could assess accurately the relative strength of these many factors.

Involved in President Roosevelt's candidacy for reelection there are certain fixed quantities. He has a record, known to the country, and he must stand on that record. Still even about him there remains the cloak of a continuing speculation as to what new policies, if any, he will project into the campaign.

In large measure, Governor Landon still has to make the acquaintance of the American people. He is destined to be much better known, and to make a far more definite impression one way or the other, before election day.

The strength of the right-wing Democratic defection led by Al Smith and others still is to be measured. The independent movement headed by the Lemke-Coughlin coalition has not yet perfected its organization or projected its campaign plans.

And all of this, in the midst of changing currents of depression and recovery, and in a year when many politicians believe that independent voting may reach a new high.

Who knows? Who could possibly know?

Delicate Diplomacy Involved in Case

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Delicate diplomatic questions became involved in the John S. Farnsworth case today as the department of justice pursued its investigation of alleged sale of naval secrets to the Japanese.

The name of a specific Japanese officer has been drawn, into the case of Farnsworth, former Lieutenant Commander in the United States navy, who is accused of disclosing confidential information to an "agent of the Imperial Japanese navy."

The state department is keeping close touch with the situation, proceeding cautiously. The department, it was indicated, has no intention of filing a complaint with the Japanese government at present.

It was pointed out that Farnsworth has not yet been tried. The Washington Post received information from other sources that the question whether representations will be made to Tokyo, demanding the withdrawal of a member of the Japanese diplomatic corps here, depends on the disclosures and outcome of the trial.

No date for the trial has been set. Farnsworth, who is still held in jail here, is to have a hearing before a United States commissioner July 29, but it is believed that the government will press for a grand jury hearing before that time.

The navy will soon embark on a study to determine whether alleged espionage activities by foreign powers necessitate a far-reaching revision of naval tactics. Admiral William H. Standley, acting secretary of the navy, said yesterday that such a revision might be necessary.

The document Farnsworth is accused of disclosing to the Japanese contains information concerning scouting, screening of ship movements, and maneuvering of tactical units.

"If trial and evidence shows that certain publications have been violated or jeopardized and have a bearing on fleet operations, changes would probably be made," Standley asserted.

Standley declined to say how many persons were involved in recent widespread investigations of alleged espionage. He said merely that information gathered by naval intelligence officers "necessarily involved other parties."

Marvin Beach, 39, Shoots Self in Chest

Marvin Beach, 39, who for the past month had been employed at a boarding house on the Minerva mountains as a kitchen man, committed suicide at his home, 21 Davis street, Arlington, by shooting himself in the chest. He had been dependent for some time and had threatened to take his life. According to Deputy Medical Examiner Howard P. Carpenter of Dutchess county, Beach wrapped part of a clock-wire around a 12 gauge shot gun and fired one end of the wire to the trigger. Seated on the floor he pulled the rope after placing the gun against his breast. The charge exploded the barrel and fuses and shattered around him. His wife, who was in the bath room at the time, rushed out and found Beach dead.

At last Papa Monroe is getting over his grief. The gruff have bought him a car, and he's driving 499 miles a week.
